WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP) Party pow-wows, the election of a Democratic house leader, reunions, back-slapping and a final polishing of an already scrubbed and gleaming capitol provided bustling preliminaries today for the opening of a busy session of congress.

With the convening hour set for noon tomorrow, senate Democrats and house Republicans chose their officers and then house Democrats met to settle a bitter campaign for the majority leadership between Representative Sam Rayburn of Texas, and Representative John O'Connor of New York.

Rayburn won, 484 to 127. The Texan has been a fighting House leader and as chairman of the interstate commerce committee championed the public utility holding company and the securities exchange acts.

Bankhead Picked.
The Democrats caucused not only to pick their leader but also to renominate William B. Bankhead, of Alabama, unanimously, for the speakership.

Hands in the pockets of his Oxford gray suit, Rayburn had a happy grin as he told reporters:
"Of course, I'm mighty glad about it. When the inauguration program is fixed, after consultation with leaders of house and senate, that's my program, 100 per cent."

He thought it would be a "pretty long session," lasting into June; that "a lot of constitutional amendments" would be introduced; that chances for

Edward Is Uninjured When Autos Collide

ENZESFELD, Austria, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The Duke of Windsor was shaken but uninjured when his car sideswiped another at the foot of Semmering mountain where the Duke planned to go skiing yesterday, it was revealed here today.

The former King of Britain was no suppet mentally he ordered his chauffeur to turn around and returned at once to the chateau of his host, Baron Rothschild, a reliable informant said. The accident occurred near Schottwien, about 53 miles from Vienna—the Duke's large automobile was undamaged, but the machine which he was riding on a curfew was smashed.

None of the occupants of either car was injured.

Board Asks Jasper Citizens To Help County Win Award

Prominent Manufacturer
Lauds Constitution for Offer to Counties.

By HERMAN HANCOCK.

Jasper county's three-man commission yesterday set the pace for other Georgia counties when it challenged citizens to "become more cooperative with us in our endeavor to render the greatest benefits at a minimum cost and in making Jasper county a still better place in which to live."

Roy R. Kelley, chairman, and J. E. Oxford and O. D. Price, commissioners, issued the statement and it was regarded as a ringing challenge to citizens of the county and other Georgia counties to aid their officials in seeking to win the Progressive Government Awards offered by The Constitution.

At the same time, Robert Wood Johnson, president of Johnson & Johnson, internationally known manufacturers of surgical supplies, wired Major Howell, vice president and general manager of The Constitution, concerning the $7,500 The Atlanta Constitution Progressive Government Awards for 1937, congratulating and commending Major Howell and praising the political subdivisions of Georgia which are rapidly accepting the challenge.

In addition editors of various Georgia newspapers continued to endorse the Progressive Government Awards editorially as the movement continued to sweep the state in a Georgia-wide desire to bring improvements in county governments.

Scores of counties are working out plans for the competition in which a $3,500 award will go to the county.

Court Battle, Claiming

Assistant Police Chief A. Lamar Poole was demoted to the ranks last night by the 1937 city council as the new Hartsfield administration took office and in swift steps began the promised clean up of the police department.

Council voted to abolish the position Poole holds by a recorded vote of 14 to 2, and relegated the control of the detective department, which Poole headed, to the chief of police.

Even as the move against Poole was taken by the new council, attorneys for the former assistant chief prepared a court battle on the grounds that council cannot abolish an office in the police department until the holder of that office dies or retires, unless he is convicted of charges by the police committee.

Plan Sturdivant Trial.
Simultaneously, members of the 1937 police committee, appointed last night by Mayor Hartsfield, prepared to bring Police Chief T. O. Sturdivant to trial on charges drawn by Assistant City Attorney Bond Almond under the direction of Mayor Hartsfield.

COURT TO DECIDE JUDGESHIP FIGHT

Friendly Suit Planned When Pittman Refuses Bench to New Appointee

A court fight for the judgeship of the Cherokee superior court circuit appeared certain last night after Governor Talmadge appointed Judge William A. Ingram, of Cartersville, to the post which Judge Claude Pittman, also of Cartersville, refused to surrender.

"We have arranged for a friendly law suit," Judge Pittman said after a conference with Judge Ingram. "Judge Ingram will file quo warranto proceedings in a few days and we will let the supreme court decide the matter. In the meantime I will continue as judge."

Judge Pittman was defeated in the September primary by James A. McFarland, of Dalton, who died shortly after the general election. Governor Talmadge revealed upon his arrival at the capitol yesterday he had declared the judgeship vacant and appointed Judge Ingram at 1 o'clock yesterday morning at the executive mansion.

Judge Ingram had been judge of the city court of Cartersville, an office which he resigned before receiving Talmadge's superior judgeship commission.

Whittaker the new judge of the city court. He also appointed Herschel Parham, of Cartersville, to be solicitor of the city court.

Ingram appeared at the courthouse at Dalton where Judge Pittman was scheduled to open the January term of court yesterday morning. He presented his credentials but Judge Pittman declined to recognize him, and proceeded to charge the grand jury.

Reports from Dalton said the discussions between Ingram and Pittman were friendly. Pittman opposed Ingram for the judgeship two years ago and in that campaign Judge Ingram took the stump against his fellow townsman.

J. C. Paschal, of Calhoun, assumed his duties as solicitor general of the state yesterday. Governor Talmadge offered him the judgeship last week, but he declined.

JUDGE URGES LAW TO CUT JURY COST

Modification of Statutes Would Save Fulton $150,000 Yearly—Dorsey

Passage of state laws modifying the duties of the grand jury was recommended yesterday by Judge Hugh Dorsey, of Fulton superior court, in his charge to the January-February jurors. If such laws are enacted, Fulton county would save at least $150,000 annually, he estimated.

Immediately following their being sworn in and charged, the jurors passed a resolution asking city council to revoke beer permits issued to Mitchell Jabaley, who operates at 331 Pryor street, S. W., and to refrain from granting beer permits to anyone at this address in the future.

The action followed numerous disturbances at this address, attaches of the solicitor's office said. The resolution was turned over to Solicitor John A. Boykin, who sent it to Alderman G. Dan Bridges for presentation to council.

"Keep your grand juries for the purpose of returning indictments whenever necessary and for all other purposes for which they were created," Judge Dorsey advocated, "but pass a law authorizing the solicitor general, after defendants have been given a

ED COOK RENAMED SCHOOL BODY HEAD

Tenth Street School Re-named 'Clark Howell' as Memorial to Editor.

With pledges of harmony and of faithful service to the Atlanta school system, the 1937 Board of Education organized yesterday by electing Ed S. Cook, first ward commissioner, to the presidency for the second consecutive year; Mrs. Z. V. Peterson, second ward, to the first vice presidency, and the Rev. H. Jack Fenn, as second vice president.

In addition, Robert F. Adamson, cashier of the Citizens & Southern National Bank, was named treasurer for a new term and Mrs. Fannie McWeston, pastor of the Capital View Presbyterian church, were selected as secretary and chaplain, respectively.

The new six-member board ordered the distribution of $182,340 surplus carried over from 1936 on the following basis:

To employees receiving a 4 per cent cut, the repayment of 2 per cent for the year 1936; to those having cuts totaling 6 per cent, a 3 per cent repayment; to those receiving a 10 per cent cut, repayment of 5 per cent with those having cuts of more than 10 per cent getting a repayment ranging from 5.5 per cent to 6 per cent.

School Name Changed.
Name of the Tenth Street school was changed to the Clark Howell school, in honor of the late Clark Howell Sr., editor and president of The Atlanta Constitution. D. F. McClatchey Jr., fifth ward school commissioner, offered the resolution, which was passed by unanimous vote after Dr. Willis A. Sutton, school superintendent, had paid Mr. Howell's memory a glowing tribute.

In accepting the office of president of the new board of education, Cook paid tribute to Atlanta schools and read from a prepared manuscript in which he rededicated the board and the school

CHIEF EXECUTIVE PLEDGES ECONOMY AND CUT IN DEFICIT

Public Safety Director
To Control Police, Fire

JUDGE ETHERIDGE ADMINISTERS OATH

Council of Eighteen Is Also Sworn In; Commit- tee Appointments Fol- low Recent Predictions.

Urging the creation of a director of public safety and promising, in addition to cleaning up the police department, to eliminate "dives and joints" handling alcoholic beverages, William B. Hartsfield, 46, last night was inaugurated as mayor of Atlanta to succeed the veteran James L. Key.

Five aldermen and 12 councilmen took oaths of office as the Hartsfield administration took over the reins of Atlanta's government, pledging strict economy and reduction of the deficit.

Only Alderman Roy Callaway, of the fourth ward, was absent. He will be sworn in later by Hartsfield, who administered the oaths to the aldermen and council members.

Alderman I. Gloer Hailey was elevated from provisional mayor pro tem, by unanimous vote, while Alderman Robert Carpenter was elected to succeed Hailey.

Mayor Hartsfield recommended, in his brief message delivered just before he read his council committee appointments, that: 1. The legislature create the position of director of public safety to control the police and fire departments; 2. Re-lieve appropriations be reduced and a new method of financing emergency relief be found; 3. That "dives and joints" be wiped out and a closer regulation of beer and wine sales be adopted by the city to include raising license fees; 4. That the old city hall site be disposed of and that the John A. White park in West End be acquired by lease or rental; and 5. That efforts be made to have Fulton county assume a larger share of the hospital and relief burden be pushed.

He called on the members of the 1937 council to "do an about face" in their method of government and said "honest, fair, intelligent government" is needed to restore the confidence of the people in council.

ARMY ENGINEERS MAP FLORIDA CANAL REPORT FOR CONGRESS ACTION

Special Commission Urges Completion at Cost of $157,585,000.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(UP)—Army engineers today began new study of the controversial Florida canal on the eve of a session of congress in which ultimate fate of the $162,985,000 project probably will be decided.

A deadline for filing briefs in opposition and support of the canal was passed today, after an extension of the week-end from the original deadline of January 2. The deadline was extended in consideration of the holiday period.

Experts of the Board of Rivers and Harbors have under study the new report compiled by a special commission of army engineers, who finally recommended completion of the canal at a cost not to exceed $157,585,000. Since $5,400,000 already has been expended on initial stages of the canal under federal emergency allocations, the total cost of the project would be brought to $162,985,000 if the engineers' recommendations are carried out.

Voluminous testimony presented by canal opponents and proponents at hearings here last month comprised the record from which the final report will be drafted.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, responsible more than any other congressional figure for letting the canal project be put in the hands of the army engineers, has submitted a letter to the engineers, renewing his definite opposition to the project.

MORE MONEY ASKED FOR WATER PROJECTS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(P)—Expenditure of $252,796,450 on combined rivers and harbors and flood control projects during the fiscal year beginning July 1 was recommended today by Major General Edward M. Markham, chief of army engineers.

In his annual report he estimated that $140,150,150 for waterway improvements and $112,646,300 for flood control could be "profitably expended." An additional $39,718,770 would be required for "essential" projects.

The total proposed sum compares with $225,558,465 actually spent in the fiscal year which ended in June, 1936.

A $35,041,000 waterway improvement project for the Mississippi river between the Missouri river and Minneapolis, requiring an extra $1,960,000 for maintenance, was the largest single recommended expenditure.

Among the larger estimates were: Missouri river, Kansas City to Sioux City, $18,600,000 and $750,000 for maintenance.

Great Lakes to Hudson river waterway, $10,000,000.

Missouri river at Fort Peck (Montana), $8,700,000.

Illinois waterway, $7,934,000 and $966,000 for maintenance.

Bonneville dam, $6,974,000.

New York and New Jersey channels, $5,600,000 and $118,000 for maintenance.

Sacramento river debris control, $4,645,000.

Cape Cod Canal, Massachusetts, $4,000,000 and $370,000 for maintenance.

Chesapeake and Delaware canal, $3,650,000 and $460,000 for maintenance.

Kanawha river, West Virginia, $2,400,000 and $200,000 for maintenance.

DORSEY URGES LAW TO CUT COURT COSTS

hearing before magistrates, to draw indictments against them and place them on trial without the grand jury investigating, as many other states now allow. This procedure is followed with reference to misdemeanors in this county in the criminal court. Such a practice will save jury salaries, bail-off per diem pay and relieve the solicitor of the necessity of attending so many sessions.

Jurors were warned not to call more witnesses for a session than were necessary as "many are people of meager means who can ill afford to make useless trips for the purpose of testifying."

Although he did not comment on the proposed investigation, Judge Dorsey gave the jury full authority to investigate charges by Mayor Hartfield relating to an alleged police tie-up with bootleggers and lottery operators.

The jury returned true bills for alleged robbery against Clifford Jones, Roy Berry, Rufus Tarragano and R. F. Wilson. These men are accused of slugging J. A. Hall, of Beaver Falls, Pa., a visitor in a downtown hotel, December 29, and robbing him of $900 cash, a watch and other valuables totaling $70.

Wilson is alleged to have played the role of a "straw man" in the robbery. He was charged with taking Hall to the hospital, the police station to report the robbery, and finally back to his hotel room where he put the injured man to bed and offered to spend the night with him.

When Hall awoke the next morning, he said his diamond stickpin valued at $150 was missing.

Other grand jurors sworn in yesterday were:

R. A. Barton, Center Hill, an electrician; Norman D. Burke, 103 West Wesley avenue, special representative of the Retail Credit Company; W. L. Hood, 97 Fourteenth street; J. J. Holcomb, Center Hill; Gus J. Epler, South Bend, secretary of the Kruger Manufacturing Company; W. A. Baughn, 1377 Lucile avenue, S. W., an insurance agent; William J. HIGH COURT UPHOLDS PRISON GOODS CURB Tribunal Refuses To Rule on Legality of Social Security Statute.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(P)—In unanimous decisions, the supreme court today upheld the Ashurst-Sumners act forbidding shipment of prison-made goods to states where their sale is illegal and attacked the operation of an Oregon criminal syndicalism law as "repugnant" to the constitution.

The victory of the Ashurst-Sumners act immediately raised hopes in some congressional quarters that the court may, after all, permit federal legislation to regulate wages and hours without a constitutional amendment.

Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, who wants to carry out such regulation by means of a system of federal charters for corporations doing interstate business, said today's decision "places the seal of constitutionality" on his plan.

The prison goods act was the second New Deal measure to win this term. Earlier the court upheld the embargo on shipment of arms to the Gran Chaco war between Paraguay and Bolivia.

Both major decisions today were read by Chief Justice Hughes.

Asserting the court had on various occasions upheld the exercise of its power to prohibit interstate transportation, Hughes said:

"The pertinent point is that where the subject of commerce is one as to which the power of the state may constitutionally be exerted by restriction . . . in order to prevent harmful consequences, congress may, if it sees fit, put forth its power to regulate interstate commerce so as to prevent that commerce from being used to impede the carrying out of the state policy."

The Kentucky Whip & Collar Company, of Louisville, Ky., had contested the law in a case growing out of refusal of the Illinois Central railroad to accept 25 shipments of prison-made goods. The road rejected the shipments on the ground they violated the law.

In the criminal syndicalism case, the court reversed the conviction of Dirk De Jonge, an Oregonian, who had been sentenced to seven years imprisonment for participation in a Communist meeting. The state law was declared unconstitutional as applied to this case only.

Conviction Upheld.
The state supreme court had upheld the conviction.

In forceful language, Hughes held that while De Jonge was a member of the Communist party he was not charged with advocating criminal syndicalism, or sabotage, or committing unlawful acts at the meeting or anywhere else.

The states, the decision said, are entitled to protect their institutions from being overthrown by violence, but "none of our decisions go to the length of sustaining such a curtailment of the right of free assembly as the Oregon statute demands in its present application."

The high tribunal declined to rule at present on the constitutionality of the social security act's provision for a tax on employers to finance unemployment insurance.

In a Massachusetts case, a federal district court had upheld the tax. Both the complainant, George P. Davis, of Boston, and the government had asked the supreme court to act before a decision of the circuit court of appeals. The supreme court gave no reason for its refusal.

MATHESON AND ALLEN URGED FOR PAGE POST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Appointment of a successor to R. E. Matheson, who recently resigned as collector of internal revenue, will be taken up by the two Georgia senators at an early date, it was learned today.

Senator George is understood to be giving his backing to Gene Matheson, of Hartwell, a former member of the state tax commission, while Senator Russell is urging the candidacy of Marion Allen, of Milledgeville, manager of the Roosevelt pre-convention campaign in Georgia.

The collectorship, always treated as senatorial patronage, is regarded as one of the choicest federal appointments and custom dictates that the senators collaborate in filling the office.

Both Senator George and Senator Russell were at the capitol today preparatory to the opening of the new session tomorrow. They conferred over the appointment briefly during a meeting this afternoon, but no decision was reached. It was said that a further conference will be held within the next few days.

School Named for Clark Howell As Tribute to Memory of Editor

Tenth Street School To Be Known in Future as Clark Howell School, After Unanimous Action by Board of Education.

Memory of Clark Howell Sr., late editor and president of The Atlanta Constitution, was honored yesterday by the board of education, which voted unanimously to change the name of the Tenth Street school to the Clark Howell school.

D. F. McClatchey Jr., school commissioner from the fifth ward, which the Clark Howell school is one of, presented the resolution and Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta schools, paid a tribute to Mr. Howell's memory and his active role in the school system.

Board members voted unanimously to approve the name change and the action was made effective at once.

The Clark Howell school is one of the most important elementary schools in the northern section of Atlanta. It is located on Tenth street, near Piedmont interest.

"I want to take this opportunity to tell you something about Mr. Howell," Sutton said. "He was always thinking about the welfare of Atlanta, but not alone for Atlanta but for his state and nation."

"When the school was first constructed, there were many persons who thought it should not have been built so far in the country, and there were those who openly advocated boarding it up and not using it."

"Mr. Howell, however, appeared before the board, urged that the building be used and predicted that it would become one of the important schools of the Atlanta system. It was opened, but the attendance was only about 100 for the first year. The second year the enrollment was about 400 and since then it has been one of the great schools of the Atlanta system."

"I wanted to recite this to show how a man with foresight and vision devoted his talents to building up Atlanta. He was always a friend of educational activities. We honor ourselves when we honor a man like that."

Icy Wave Sweeping on Midwest; Highways Blocked by Deep Snows
CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—(P)—A "severe" cold wave swept down from the frozen north today.

It advanced rapidly along a south-eastward course from the Canadian northwest.

Temperatures on both sides of the Canadian border fell far under the zero mark while forecasters warned the frigidify would extend across the entire midwest.

Meteorologist J. R. Lloyd said Chicagoans would feel the sting of sub-zero cold for the first time this season tomorrow night. The siege, he added, might last three or four days.

These readings were reported in the path of the new cold wave: The Pas, Manitoba, —28; Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, —22; Grand Forks, N. D., —20; Jamestown, N. D., —16; Durango, Colo., and Flagstaff, Ariz., —14; Duluth, Minn., —12; Idaho Falls, Idaho, —3; Marquette, Mich., —2.

COOK AGAIN TO HEAD CITY SCHOOL BOARD

Successful Year.

"The Atlanta public school system has just completed a very successful year," Brewster said.

"During 1936 strict economy was practiced in every division of our school system and by this economy and increased appropriations the department completed the year with a balance of $182,340.45. This balance will no doubt be refunded to the school employees on a percentage basis which will materially reduce the heavy salary cut which the school employees have been working under during the year."

"There are many concrete evidences that the Atlanta public school system is operating at a very low cost as compared with school systems in cities of like population and at the same time is offering to the children of the city a modern and progressive system of education. For example, recent figures published by the United States office of education show that Atlanta spent in the school year 1934-1935 $55.69 per pupil, whereas the average in 73 cities of 100,000 population or more was $101.17. During this same period Atlanta schools spent only 1.8 per cent of its funds for administrative purposes, whereas in the same 73 cities an average of 3 per cent was spent on administration."

"The government figures also show that the cost for the operating and maintenance departments of the Atlanta public schools was only $6.15 per pupil, whereas the national average for cities in Atlanta's class shows an expenditure of $12.84 per pupil. In other words the nation's average cost for the operation of these two departments is more than twice the average cost in the city of Atlanta."

Salary Comparisons.

"Other evidence of low cost in local public education is shown in salary comparisons. Data published by the National Education Association for 1935 show that Atlanta's average elementary teachers receive an average salary which is but 72 per cent of the national average for cities in her population class, and the white high school teachers receive but 74 per cent of the national average. Similar or lower proportions apply to other positions on up to the superintendent, whose salary is one of the lowest in the country for cities in Atlanta's class."

"Financial statistics of cities, published annually by the United States government, show an average ratio of 41.2 per cent between school current expenses and total city current expenses for cities of Atlanta's group classification. The ratio for Atlanta is 41.0. For other southern cities of about the same size as Atlanta, the ratio is as follows: Birmingham, 47.9; Dallas, 47.8; Memphis, 40.9; Oklahoma City, 50.3; San Antonio, 44.1.

Employees Praised.

"A great deal of credit for the excellent showing of the Atlanta schools is due to the fine group of school employees. Although working under a salary reduction the spirit of the school employees as a whole has been that of understanding and co-operation. For this service the citizens of Atlanta should be thankful."

"The school department is anticipating additional revenue on which to operate. There is every indication that the state appropriation for common schools will be materially increased and that the federal aid and there also a possibility of federal aid which will materially assist in the proper operation of our schools."

"Beginning this year the Atlanta public school will be operated by a board of six members, one representative from each ward in the city. During the last few years the school department has received considerable unnecessary and uncalled for criticism. The present board will welcome any fair and constructive criticism at any time."

"We are looking forward with pleasure for the opportunity of working in harmony and co-operation with the other city departments, city council and the mayor. We believe it will be the policy of the new city administration to assist the school department."

Ramspeck Presides At Speaker Caucus

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Representative Robert Ramspeck, of Atlanta, was paid a signal honor late today by being designated secretary of the Democratic caucus which met to name a house majority leader for the new congress convening tomorrow.

The office went to the Georgia member in recognition of his close affiliation with the house leadership during the past session. Representative Robert Doughton, of North Carolina, was named chairman of the caucus, which elected Representative Sam Rayburn, of Texas, as majority leader.

Deal with a cold in earnest. Deal with it in seriousness. A cold is too fraught with danger to be taken lightly. Many a case of flu and pneumonia has started with nothing more than a "common cold."

Treat a cold for what it is—an internal infection. Therefore, internal treatment.

Treat a cold with a preparation made for colds and not a "cure-all."

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is your answer to a cold.

It is a cold tablet, made expressly for the treatment of colds and not for all kinds of ailments. It is internal in effect and it does four important things.

First, it opens the bowels, an important step in overcoming a cold.

Second, it checks the infection in the system, a vital step.

Third, it relieves the headache and fever.

Fourth, it tones the system and helps fortify against further attack.

These are the four effects a cold calls for and in Bromo Quinine you get them all in the form of a single tablet.

Bromo Quinine tablets now come sugar-coated as well as plain. The sugar-coated are exactly the same as the regular, except that the tablets are coated with sugar for palatability.

Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is safe to take. It has been proven by more than 40 years of use.

When you feel a cold coming on—don't wait—don't procrastinate—but go right to your drugstore and get a package of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.

party harmony in the house were "fine."

He is a close friend of Vice President Garner, who endorsed him "200 per cent."

O'Connor, red-headed Tammanyite and rules committee chairman, took the defeat with a jest.

"The only reason I didn't win," he told reporters, "was that I didn't have enough votes. But I'm still a young fellow," he added.

Throughout the capital, and more particularly in the office buildings, knots of returning legislators gathered to renew old acquaintanceships, shake hands, reminisce and exchange stories of the year's political campaigning.

Advice Sought.

Newly elected members were everywhere, too, getting settled in their new offices, asking advice, familiarizing themselves with the bewildering maze of capitol corridors or gathering in little groups—exclusively their own.

Equally ubiquitous were the cleaners, scrubbers, painters and carpenters, doing a little extra mopping, tacking up "fresh paint" signs, fixing the hinges of a complaining senator's door.

In the senate chamber, two clerks nonchalantly smoked cigars—prohibited tomorrow—a third was mysteriously busy checking off names on a senate roll call list. A broom leaned against a wall. A carpet sweeper could be seen in the Republican cloakroom.

But in the house chamber there was action. Before noon, the Republicans of that branch—a little band of 89 minus six absentees—scattered about the huge reaches of the chamber for their organization conference.

Snell Named.

Representative Snell, of New York, re-elected as minority floor leader and chosen his party's hopeless candidate for the speakership, sat leaning forward on his elbows at the leaders' table. The conference lasted three hours, with what developed to be a discussion of "the general political situation."

"We are not going to oppose measures we think sound just because they come from the Democrats," Snell told reporters later. "We will consider each piece of legislation on its merits."

Eight Progressives selected Representative George J. Schneider, Progressive, Wisconsin, for their party's high post.

The senate Democrats met in a small room. The session was brief and to the point. They re-elected Senator Robinson, of Arkansas as floor leader, and Senator Lewis, of Illinois as whip.

Then they emerged in groups, Tidyings, of Maryland, and Byrd, of Virginia, walked down the corridor with their arms crossed over each other's shoulders. McKellar, of Tennessee, and Bone, of Washington, snatched off together. Harrison, of Mississippi, high in party councils, trudged off thoughtfully alone. Lewis jocularly told reporters that the new members had stayed behind to draw lots for committee assignments. O'Mahoney, of Wyoming, and Pittman, of Nevada, remained inside in earnest conversation.

Robinson told reporters that amending the neutrality act to prohibit arms shipments to Spain would be the first legislation to be brought before congress followed by the extension of several laws which otherwise would expire.

These include, the President's power to revalue the dollar and the continuation of the stabilization fund; the Reconstruction Corporation, the Conservation Corps, the reciprocal tariff act.

And always lurking in the background will be the possibility of a constitutional amendment on wages and hours.

Bankhead Sees Amendment.

Speaker Bankhead said that under "certain contingencies" there would be strong pressure for a constitutional amendment permitting federal labor legislation. His statement closely followed the observation by Senator Robinson, that a constitutional amendment would be "the best method" of meeting the problem.

Tomorrow's session will be confined to the administration of oaths of office and organization. The house will select a speaker, choosing Bankhead, who succeeded to that office last spring upon the death of Representative Byrnes, of Tennessee.

Then both house and senate will recess to permit a committee to go to the White House and let President Roosevelt in on the open secret that congress has convened and will be glad to receive any message he has.

F. D. R. Message Wednesday.

The President's message will be delivered Wednesday. He will go to the capitol in person. Both senate and house will gather in the house chamber and the President will address the joint session.

On Friday, congress will receive Mr. Roosevelt's budget message, going into details of the federal finances and giving estimates on receipts and recommended appropriations for the remaining six months of this fiscal year and for the full fiscal year beginning next July. Many legislators gave notice of bills they will introduce.

Senator Black, Democrat, Alabama, said he would reintroduce his 30-hour week bill soon after the senate convenes.

Tenant Bill Today.

Chairman Jones, Democrat, Texas, of the house agriculture committee, said he and Senator Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, would introduce bills tomorrow calling for an annual $50,000,000 appropriation for 10 years to help tenants buy farms.

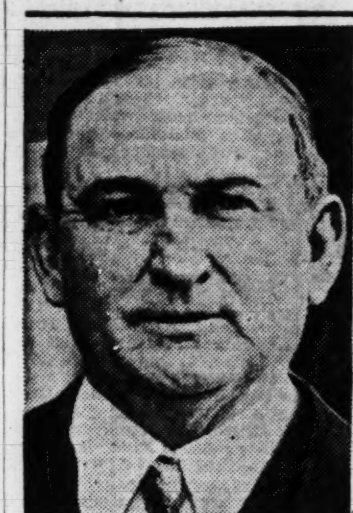

Jones said the legislation would call for long-time loans at low interest rates.

Earlier Jones conferred with President Roosevelt on farm matters.

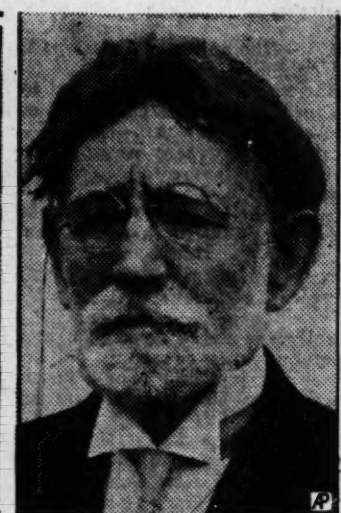

Representative Warren, Democrat, North Carolina, said he would reintroduce the crop loan bill passed last session and vetoed by President Roosevelt.

The 1937 measure, he said, would appropriate $45,000,000 to be lent to farmers in need of cash for financing crops. Last year's bill proposed $50,000,000.

RED COAST ARTILLERY TRAINED ON NAZI SHIPS

attacks against Spanish ships will continue, a Berlin spokesman said.

Berlin scorned the retaliatory order by Bilbao to its patrol boats to fire on any ships interfering with Spanish merchantmen as a "childish threat."

Berlin was highly angered by reports the German freighter Plut had been halted by Spanish trawlers off Bilbao late last month.

The determination to push the Palos incident, some believed, was an indication of the answer Chancellor Hitler will make shortly to the Franco-British demand to halt enlistment of foreign volunteers in the Spanish civil war.

Hitler Reply Soon.

The foreign office said Hitler's reply would be published within a few days.

The proposal for arbitration of the Nazi-Spanish dispute was advanced in Paris, France and Britain, it was suggested, would make representations to Berlin, set up a neutral commission and seek peaceable agreement on the matter of the Palos.

Britain made official protests to the Burgos Insurgent junta and to Fascist naval authorities at Cadiz over the Etrich and Blackhill incidents.

The 17 men of war, London informants said, will give protection to all empire merchantmen, but naval authorities will reserve the right to investigate any ship suspected of carrying arms or ammunition to Spain.

WILL CONTINUE.

GERMANY THREATENS.

BERLIN, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Nazi warships will continue to seize and search Spanish Socialist merchant ships to avenge capture of the freighter Palos, the foreign office made known tonight.

Capture of the Aragon and the Marita Jaquerra and the former, the Sotom to run aground were not sufficient to pacify Germany, official sources said.

There must, a government spokesman asserted, be more reprisals.

Word came from Hitler's rural retreat at Berchtesgaden that the Fuehrer was ready to give his answer to the Franco-British demand to stem the flow of volunteers. The foreign office said the reply would be published within a "very few days."

Hitler fully realizes the magnitude of the responsibility he accepted by recognizing the government of the Basque General Francisco Franco, spokesmen here said, and apparently is ready to back to the limit that recognition.

One indication of this was word that General Wilhelm Fap, now en route to his post as charge d'affaires of the German mission at Burgos, would inform Franco that the German naval campaign would be pursued "relentlessly."

Basque government orders to its ships to fire on any craft menacing Spanish merchantmen drew the reply from the Berlin Nacht Ausgabe.

"Announcements like that, issued by a group of Bolshevik criminals at Bilbao, don't interest Germany," Der Angriff, organ of Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, termed the Basque warning a "childish threat" by "the terrorist Soviet of Bilbao."

CONCERTED ACTION BY PARIS, LONDON SEEN

PARIS, Jan. 4.—(AP)—France and Great Britain may seek to halt the "undeclared war" between Germany and Spanish Basques along the northern coast of Spain, sources close to the foreign office said tonight.

Manifesting increasing alarm over Chancellor Hitler's declared intent to pursue search and seizure of Spanish merchant ships in reprisal for capture of the Nazi freighter Palos, one official declared.

The question is whether Germany wishes to find a satisfactory settlement of the Palos incident or whether she intends to exploit it for her own particular interests.

A Spanish Socialist embassy spokesman said his government might appeal to the League of Nations against Germany.

The appeal, he said, would be made under Article 11 of the covenant which calls for League action in case of "war or threat of war."

Well-informed diplomatic sources said they had conferred that 4,000 Italians were lay off January 1 in Cadiz, Spain, for the transport Lombaria.

They decided this action would be referred to the Non-Intervention Committee in London as quickly as possible, "probably by the Valencia government."

French official sources said they saw the reported Italian action and Germany's action against Spanish steamers as meaning both Mussolini and Hitler would refuse to adhere to the Franco-British proposals for banning the flow of foreign volunteers into Spain.

The situation further was intensified by Franco-Spanish border reports that Basque forces at Bilbao had trained big coastal guns on Nazi warships in the Bay of Biscay.

British officials were advised by the Basques that coastal guns would begin "practice" firing tomorrow.

17 BRITISH WARSHIPS GUARD SHIPPING

LONDON, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Great Britain sent 17 warships tonight to the task of protecting merchant shipping against new attacks in troubled Spanish waters.

Official protests were directed to the Burgos Insurgent junta and to Spanish Fascist naval authorities at Cadiz over the halting of the British steamer Etrich off Europa point and shelling of the British steamer Blackhill in the Bay of Biscay.

There were no indications tonight that the British foreign office had received replies as a new danger developed along the northern Spanish coast.

Basque officials at Bilbao advised British shipping to navigate with care and announced long-range coastal batteries were set for "practice" fire in the patrol course of two German warships.

Much earlier in the civil war, British warned both sides that shelling would answer any attack against her merchantmen.

MOORS REPORTED REBELLION ON FASCISTS

TANGIER, International Zone, Morocco, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Fascist Insurgent commanders in Spanish Morocco tightened restrictions against travel in the area today amid reports of uprising of some tribes against their Fascist officers.

The reports, which could not be immediately confirmed, said 200 native troops protesting forced recruiting had occupied the mosque gates of Tetuan while others were deserting from the Insurgent army.

Spanish officials refused to discuss the reports.

DR. D. FRASER-HARRIS, AUTHOR, DIES IN LONDON

LONDON, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Dr. David Fraser-Harris, author and lecturer, died last night in a London nursing home. He was 69 years old.

Dr. Fraser-Harris was secretary of the faculty of medicine of the University of Birmingham, England, and former professor of physiology at Dalhousie University, Halifax, N. S.

He was a member of professional societies in Scotland, England and Canada and a frequent contributor to medical journals.

300 Students on Strike For Reinstatement of Cop

DEEPWATER, N. J., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Three hundred Deepwater school children went on strike today in a demand that Patrolman William "Pete" Eckley be officially reinstated as the community "cop."

Eckley, ousted by the lower Penns Neck township committee, had all the best of it. He still sported his uniform and directed traffic, chief function of the one policeman assigned to Deepwater.

His official successor, William Prince, erstwhile dye plant worker, had a badge but stood idly by. He could get possession of neither a uniform nor the keys to the one traffic signal light.

Gathering in groups, children cheered Eckley and hooted the new officer.

The youthful strikers paraded with signs reading, "Pete for Cop," "No More School Until We Get Pete," and "Down With Prince."

ZERBST WILL RETURN AS U. S. WARDEN HERE

ens, Walter A. Hunter will be transferred to Atlanta penitentiary from Northeastern penitentiary, at Lewisburg, Pa., but no mention is made in the government bulletin as to the plans for Deputy Warden Julian A. Schoen, who has served at the Atlanta penitentiary since it was built in 1901.

Neither Warden Aderhold, of the Atlanta penitentiary, nor Deputy Schoen would comment on the transfers yesterday, Warden Aderhold feeling "that any comment should come out of Washington," while Deputy Schoen refused to answer his telephone.

Federal officials in Atlanta were startled by the unexpected news. Aderhold's transfer means that he is being moved to a smaller prison and Schoen's future is in doubt.

The government's bulletin, announcing the transfer, listed these assignments:

"Atlanta penitentiary: Warden Fred G. Zerbst from Leavenworth and Deputy Warden Walter A. Hunter from Northeastern."

"Leavenworth main penitentiary: Warden Robert H. Hudspeth from Leavenworth annex and Deputy Warden C. J. Shuttlesworth from Alcatraz."

"Leavenworth annex: Warden A. C. Aderhold from Atlanta and Deputy Warden Fred L. Morrison from Leavenworth main penitentiary."

"Northeastern penitentiary: Deputy Warden Guy C. Rexroad from Leavenworth annex."

Aderhold, a native of Carroll county in Georgia, went to work at the penitentiary in 1906 as assistant foreman of a construction force then building an annex to the institution. When the annex was completed Aderhold became a guard and then was made record clerk for about 15 years. It was in this job he served under

Deputy Warden in 1927.

Aderhold was made a deputy warden in June, 1927, and in March, 1929, he was put temporarily in charge of the penitentiary when Warden John W. Snook was removed in his epochal battle with Mabel Walker Willebrandt, then assistant attorney general. June 1, 1929, Aderhold's appointment as warden in charge of the penitentiary was officially announced.

Prison rules have been tightened since Aderhold has taken charge. Visitors are held to a minimum; prisoners live under stricter rules, and Aderhold has strictly enforced the rules.

Zerbst has been in the prison service for 41 years.

Jasper Resolution.

Text of the resolution passed by the Jasper board of county commissioners follows:

"Whereas, The Atlanta Constitution on December 27, 1936, announced and inaugurated a competitive movement to raise the standard of county government from standpoint of service, efficiency and economy in administration in order that government may progress in pace with industry, commerce and agriculture, by making cash awards to 13 counties of the 159 of the state of Georgia, and

"Whereas, the board of commissioners of roads and revenues of Jasper county desire to make their administration the best possible for the county of Jasper and every citizen thereof, and

"Whereas, improvement in government can be best attained through the interest and co-operation of all its citizens with its officers, in making their public business a business comparable to private business administration;

"Now therefore, we, the board of commissioners of roads and revenues of Jasper county, comment Major Clark Howell and The Atlanta Constitution for this laudable purpose of improving our governmental welfare and for its generous offer of awards to the 13 counties which bring the greatest benefit to their citizens.

"We further request the citizens of Jasper county to enter with us in the present progressive government movement by making suggestions and to become more co-operative with us in our endeavor to render the greatest benefits at a minimum cost and in making Jasper county a still better place in which to live."

son gave newspapermen his statement appealing for restraint of activity by Justice Department agents, state and local police. He said:

"My son was kidnapped a week ago Sunday night. He has not yet been returned. I desire to appeal to all law enforcement agencies to abstain from any action which would in any manner interfere with the full and free opportunity which I wish the kidnaper to have to return the child."

"I am sensible of the sympathy and desire to assist me of law enforcement agencies and feel certain that my request for the restraint of their activities will be accepted by them with a full realization of the possibilities involved in their continued operation."

"As a father, I desire the safe return of my son. I wish that all efforts might first be concentrated upon that issue."

The statement, which was not signed, found hundreds of state officers abandoning without result a widespread manhunt through the wooded Shelton area for two men who last night accosted G. H. Grubbs, a mill watchman, told him to "tell Dr. Mattson everything is well" and then fled.

Today's ad, coupled with Dr. Mattson's statement, immediately aroused numerous rumors the boy might be returned momentarily. It also quieted, to an extent, fears he might have been kidnapped by an insane person who would never make any attempt to collect the ransom.

GEORGIA EDUCATORS OPEN 1937 MEETING IN SAVANNAH APRIL 15

Plans Are Announced After Conference Between Ramsey and Strong.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Jan. 4.—(P)—Plans for the Georgia Education Association convention on April 15-17, were announced today following a conference between Ralph L. Ramsey, secretary of the association, and Ormond B. Strong, superintendent of the Savannah schools, and Chamber of Commerce officials.

The sessions will convene at the municipal auditorium at 8:30 o'clock on Thursday night, April 15. It is possible that an afternoon session will be held prior to the night session but plans for this have not been completed. A state chorus, composed of representatives from schools over Georgia, will sing on this occasion.

The following morning, April 16, a general meeting will be held at 10 o'clock with music by students of the local public schools. That afternoon departmental meetings will be held in the class rooms of the Savannah High school.

The general meeting of the convention will take place that night, with Governor E. D. Rivers as the principal speaker. Music for this occasion will be provided by bands from over the state, combined into one band.

On Saturday morning, April 17, the convention will be brought to a close with a business meeting of the expected 500 delegates. This session will be held in the auditorium of Commercial High school.

The committee exhibits, consisting of school equipment, books and materials for school work, will be on display in the aisles of the auditorium and in Gregory hall on the second floor of the auditorium. It is possible local concerns will have exhibits also.

GREATER DECORUM IN COURT IS URGED

Bar Group Bares Increased
Criticism for Misconduct
During Sessions.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 4.—(P)—A resolution for greater decorum in the courts was heard here today as the house delegates of the American Bar Association convened for its second annual meeting.

Asserting that the nation's courts have been subjected to "increasing public censure for indecorum in the conduct of their sessions," the judicial section of the bar association, headed by Chief Justice Carl Weyandt, of the Ohio supreme court, recommended:

"That no court permit its sessions to be interrupted by broadcasting or by taking photographs or moving pictures."

And that witnesses should not be sworn in groups, but each have the oath administered immediately before testifying and a permanent record of the fact be made.

Other topics slated to come before the delegates—the "American Bar Association"—during their three-day meeting here included the reported overcrowding of the legal profession, the effect of an increasing number of advisory boards, commissions, and bureaus in government upon the practice of law, and judicial selection and tenure.

DR. F. D. DONOGHUE IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Massachusetts Physician Was Authority on Cancer and Tuberculosis.

BOSTON, Jan. 4.—(P)—Dr. Francis D. Donoghue, 72, examiner for the Massachusetts industrial accident board, and internationally recognized as an authority on cancer, tuberculosis and industrial accidents, died today at Peter Bent Brigham hospital. He had been ill for more than a month.

In 1925 he was appointed by the late President Calvin Coolidge as a delegate to the international conference on industrial accidents and diseases at Amsterdam.

Former President Hoover appointed him a delegate to represent the United States at the sixth international conference on industrial accidents and diseases at Geneva in 1931.

His attendance at the caucus today was his first official act on beginning a new six-year term.

100 JUNIOR LEAGUERS SELECTED FOR ROLES IN FOLLIES OF 1937

Extravaganza To Be Presented at Erlanger Theater
January 29, 30.

Junior Leaguers last night began serious work toward perfecting "Follies of 1937" for its initial showing before Mr. and Mrs. Atlanta at the Erlanger theater January 29 and 30. Approximately 100 socially prominent Atlantans were selected by the directors yesterday for roles in the production.

Arthur Selig and Ray W. Walsh, New York theatrical directors, arrived in Atlanta yesterday morning and immediately launched a series of consultations with Junior League officials in an effort to find and select the best amateur talent in the city for the 1937 club presentation.

Tryouts were held last night at the Piedmont Driving Club, and after many trials the directors selected the cast for five special skits.

"Follies of 1937" will be divided into 28 scenes, depicting the most humorous sketches from current and recent Broadway successes, including "As Thousands Cheer," "Life Begins at 4:40," "Keep Smiling," and "New Faces." The chorus will consist of 70 of Atlanta society's most attractive women and prominent men.

Costumes for the gala production have been designed by Charley LeMaire, noted for his work with the original Ziegfeld shows. They will arrive this week. Special stage sets have been designed for the show.

Walsh will be in charge of the dancing and Selig will be general director of the production. They have just returned from Seattle where they produced Junior League Follies.

High tribute to Atlanta's reputation in the show world was paid by Selig in explaining the appearance of two directors this year:

"Atlanta has a national reputation of being the finest in entertainment and it will be necessary to make the performance seem professional in every way."

They were married in Webster, Fla., and settled in Luthersville, Ga., soon afterward. The couple later moved to Atlanta, where Mr. Salmon died several years ago.

Mrs. Salmon was a descendant of a prominent family. Her parents were James and Lucinda Kimbrough. Her brother, J. T. Kimbrough, who died 12 years ago, served here for several years as a councilman.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Harry G. Pooles, with the Rev. Robert L. Arnold officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

Funeral services will be W. J. Hogan Jr., George E. Lyle, Herbert C. D. Gann, Tim Sutton and Thomas D. Sims.

Miss Watanen was born in Minnesota, where her parents moved from Finland about 35 years ago. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Watanen, of New York; three brothers, Heimo and Ivan Watanen, of Jacksonville, Fla.; four sisters, Mrs. W. H. Olsen, Mrs. J. W. Irby Henderson, the Rev. Marvin Williams and Dr. D. C. Starnes officiating. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

MEMBER FROM EVANS RESIGNS HOUSE SEAT

Governor Talmadge accepted the resignation of Remer E. DeLoach, of Clayton, from the general assembly yesterday and ordered the Evans county ordinary to call an election to fill the vacancy.

Junior Leaguers Try Out for Follies' Cast

On the right is Miss Harriet Grant. Her partner is Mrs. John Barnett.

SEARCH BROADENED POLICE CONTINUE FOR GIRL, KIDNAPER

Blonde Victim's Mate Names
Rival in Abduction Warrant.

NEWARK, Ohio, Jan. 4.—(P)—Police broadened a search for an 18-year-old wife tonight 24 hours after her husband reported she had been abducted by a man who "was crazy about her."

The husband, Wesley Wheeler, 24, named Arthur Spence, 32, as the abductor and Police Chief Curtis Berry said a warrant for kidnapping had been filed.

Despite a wide hunt by officers, Chief Berry said no trace had been found of the blonde, attractive young woman or Spence since her husband reported she was forced into an automobile near the public square Saturday night.

Wheeler said he was working at a nearby inn when his wife disappeared while en route to a movie with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shaffer. The Shaffers told police Spence forced them and Mrs. Wheeler into an automobile.

They later were shoved from the car which headed toward Columbus, police were told.

TUGWELL IS 'TARDY' FOR FIRST DAY'S WORK

Former New Deal Aide Is Now Just Plain Businessman.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(P)—Dr. Rexford G. Tugwell, for four years a symbol of advanced liberalism in President Roosevelt's administration and the target for much anti-New Deal criticism, went to work today at the big desk of a corporation executive—a plain businessman.

On his first day of work for his friend Charles Taussig's American Molasses Company, the debonair former college professor saw newsmen briefly, shook off questions as to what his salary would be—and turned quietly to his duties.

One welcome to Wall Street he thought was enough; during the afternoon he sent out word he was very busy. He wound up his first day as an American businessman in typical fashion. He was in conference.

The question of specifically what his duties would be he left unanswered—except to defer to Taussig and to say it would be general executive work.

Tugwell got in a relatively short day, not coming to work until 10:30 a. m., but it was emphasized he expected to have a full schedule hereafter.

It was made plain that he had no regrets at leaving the administration and in reply to questions concerning criticism of him as a public official he replied: "That never bothered me much." He was director of the Resettlement Administration and undersecretary of agriculture.

As the day closed at the company's offices, it was made clear that Dr. Tugwell expects to go along only, as he put it, "just as another salaried man."

And now I must settle down to work," was his last words to those who had come to see him.

MAYOR HARTSFIELD INDUCTED INTO OFFICE

Yesterday was inaugurated to the Fulton superior court bench, administered the oath to Mayor Hartsfield. Ceremonies of the inauguration included introduction of the distinguished guests, who were the Fulton and DeKalb legislative delegations, former mayors of Atlanta, the board of education, the county commissioners of Fulton and DeKalb and members of the general assembly. Members of Hartsfield's family were present as he became the city's chief executive.

By virtue of a recently passed ordinance Mayor Hartsfield is an ex-officio member of every one of the 18 council committees and has a vote on each. His power is unprecedented in controlling the affairs of the city, since previous mayors had only the power of veto. Hartsfield still has that power.

Committees As Predicted.
The new mayor's committee appointments were much as had been predicted in political circles. The full list is carried in other columns. He named on three-man committees.

Upon the police committee, which is headed by Alderman G. Dan Bridges, will fall the brunt of carrying out the remainder of Hartsfield's campaign promises to clean up the police department. Bridges said the committee will meet later this week for organization and that charges against Chief T. O. Sturdivant are scheduled to be filed.

The Rev. Ellis A. Fuller, pastor of the First Baptist church, delivered the invocation last night after City Clerk Joe Richardson called the new council together. It followed the last meeting of the 1936 council at 7:30 o'clock to hear the last message of Mayor Key, who, unable to attend because of illness, urged support be given to the Hartsfield.

Others Inaugurated.
Members of council who were inaugurated with Hartsfield were: Alderman Bridges, of the first ward; Alderman F. A. Gilliam, of the second; Alderman Robert Carpenter, third; Alderman Frank H. Reynolds, fifth; Alderman I. Glover Hailey, sixth, who was unopposed for mayor pro tem.

Councilmen C. L. Chosewood and Cecil W. Hester, of the first; George B. Lyle and E. A. Minor, second; J. Allen Couch and W. T. Knight, third; C. M. (Mac) Bolen and John T. Marler, fourth; J. Frank Beck and John A. White, fifth, and Howard Haile and Frank Wilson, sixth ward.

Hartsfield's selection of Joe Gregg as secretary to the mayor was approved by council.

In other elections by council, Bolen and Wilson were named on the important budget committee; Gilliam and White were elected to the board of trustees of Steiner clinic; and Hartsfield's reappointed James Leach Wells, his former opponent in the city primary, to the Grady hospital board.

In business disposed of by the new council, the inland city budget was referred to the 1937 finance committee, and a proposal by Hailey and Gilliam to prohibit the sale of wine and beer in the city from midnight Saturdays to 6 o'clock Monday morning was referred to the new ordinance committee.

Councilman Aubrey Milam, who retired, made the speech of farewell of the 20 outgoing council members as

Committee Slated for Major Part in Police Cleanup--Members of New City Council as They Were Sworn In presented Mayor Pro Tem. Ellis B. Barrett a watch in appreciation of his services.

The four men who will serve with Mayor Hartsfield on the important police committee are pictured at the inauguration exercises last night. Left to right are Councilmen Cecil Hester, John T. Marler, Alderman G. Dan Bridges, chairman, and Councilman C. M. (Mac) Bolen, vice chairman. Upon them will fall the brunt of the police department clean-up.

Among the distinguished guests were Robert F. Menzies, I. N. Ragdale, Walter A. Sims and Courland Winn, former mayors; Roy V. Harris, next speaker of the house of representatives and John B. Spivey, next president of the senate, who promised co-operation in legislation affecting Atlanta. State Senator G. Everett Millican made a short address in presenting Hartsfield with a new gavel.

Two other papers were passed by council before the session ended last night. One was authority to pay salaries and expenses during January until a finance sheet is made up, and the other, by Reynolds, accepted a $80,000 federal grant for completion of sewer disposal plants in the metropolitan sewer system.

At the afternoon session, the last regular meeting of the 1936 council, routine business was transacted in a short time, since most of the members were absent.

Playground Named.
Councilmen voted to name the recently acquired playground on Hardee street in the old twelfth ward, the R. F. Gilliam park, in honor of the late father of Alderman Ed A. Gilliam. He was a former mayor of Kirkwood and was the first councilman from the twelfth.

The budget, balanced last week with the inclusion of pay cuts for all city employees, was adopted by council, because the necessary members of the budget committee were not present to sign it.

Alderman Ellis B. Barrett, who acted as a member of the commission by virtue of being mayor pro tem, refused to sign the budget on the grounds the anticipations from taxes were too low. He said it was unreasonable to think tax receipts would be less in 1937 than in 1936.

Barrett's appointment of L. R. Williams to succeed the late Joe Felton on the board of plumbing examiners was approved by council, which also accepted the pension applications of three city employees, M. P. Cornett, foreman in the construction department, who will draw $75 per month; B. R. Dickinson, water meter reader, who will draw $71 per month after 30 years' service, and Alf Evans, negro gutter sweeper, who will draw $34 per month after 25 years' service.

Patrolman Praised.
Councilmen voted to frame and hang a letter from W. R. Chambers, of Chattanooga, who highly praised the efficiency of Patrolman R. M. Holland, of the city police department. Chambers said he was involved in an accident and declared Holland's efficiency in handling matters was remarkable.

The aldermanic board did not meet following the council session because council recessed until 7:30 o'clock to hear Mayor Key's message immediately preceding the inauguration of Hartsfield. J. C. Savage, city attorney, ruled the body must adjourn before the aldermen could pass on papers.

Savage, in his annual report to council, stated his department turned back into the city treasury $2,230 in 1936, representing the difference between expenditures of $31,511 and an appropriation of $33,741. The department brought to a final conclusion 148 cases in Fulton and DeKalb superior courts, three in the United States district court and one in the justice court during the year.

Claims Settled.
One hundred and twenty-three claims against the city seeking an aggregate of $520,150 were settled for $3,381, all except 35 being adverse. The department paid out $2,690 to city workmen who were injured and were covered by the workmen's compensation act. Savage said the 1924 city code had been brought up to date but the city needed a new code printed.

He praised the efficiency of the men in his department and declared Atlanta's law department gives more and better service at less cost than any other city of comparable size.

2 MENINGITIS DEATHS.
HARLAN, Ky., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Five new cases of spinal meningitis—with two deaths—were reported in Harlan county over the week end. They bring to 28 the number of cases reported recently. The county board of health warned against unnecessary congregations.

VETERAN LEGISLATOR OF FLORIDA SUCCEUMBS
PERRY, Fla., Jan. 4.—(AP)—William Thomas Hendry, 60, veteran member of the Florida house of representatives, died last today.

In poor health for months, he had been seriously ill for two weeks. After serving several terms as mayor of Perry, Hendry was a member of the legislature from Taylor county in 1923, 1925, 1927 and was elected again last November.

CARE IN GRANTING OF ANY REMISSIONS
The various committees and department heads should further see to it that the many services for which the city makes a charge are not waived or given away, and properly billed and collected for. Extreme care should be exercised in the granting of any remissions or refunds of any nature. The sum of many such small items makes an impressive total at the end of a year.

I further recommend that every effort be made to induce Fulton county to assume what would appear to be a fairer share of those burdens of government in which they participate, such as street repairs, hospitalization and relief. The matter involved should not be merely a financial dispute as between two sets of elected officials, but the necessary governmental needs of some 270,000 citizens of the county and city, who are looking to both governments for fair play. In this matter I have the highest confidence in the fairness and sympathetic co-operation of our county officials and in a spirit of mutual friendship and co-operation, I believe they will find a way to aid their own citizens living in Atlanta.

METHOD OF FINANCING
RELIEF IS UNSOUND
One of our heaviest burdens has been that of relief. In this respect we have spent sums far in excess of any city of our size in the nation. Our method of financing it has been unsound. The amount appropriated must be drastically reduced. If the actual need be greater than our ability to provide, then other governmental agencies must come to our rescue. The state of Georgia should be called upon to assume such part of this burden as is beyond the capacity of local government to stand.

I recommend that an immediate effort be made to dispose of the old city hall property. The people were promised that its disposition would be used to ease the burden of the new city hall bonds when they were being passed upon by the voters. The putting of this property to private use would further increase the taxable value of our city.

It has been suggested that possibly we cannot long continue to furnish for the many and varied services which our city is endeavoring to give its taxpayers under the present sources of revenue. Without committing ourselves to the mere proposition of looking for more revenue, it is our first duty to exercise every possible economy and to promote every possible efficiency in our government before we give definite thought to asking the people to assume further burdens.

In view of the large expenditures which the city has already made on the John A. White park and golf course, and of the very evident necessity for a park in this general section, I recommend that every effort be made through some form of lease or rental arrangement, to preserve this property as a park until the city is in financial shape to purchase it at some fair price.

The legalization of wine and beer laws presents a new problem of enforcement and regulation and many of our citizens feel that we have not done our full duty in this respect.

INDISCRIMINATE SALE
OF ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES
Throughout our city are places where wine and beer are sold, which are nothing more nor less than dives and joints and they should be properly closed as fast as we can get to them. Never in the days before prohibition did we see in Atlanta the unrestrained and indiscriminate sale of alcoholic beverages on the part of almost any and every body, regardless of character or type of place.

I recommend that the most stringent regulations be placed about the sale of these beverages, including investigation of the character and reputation in the community of those who offer it for sale and a proper respect for the views of surrounding property owners.

I recommend that the license fees for the sale of these beverages be materially increased, which should automatically result in better regulation. I further recommend that the sale of any alcoholic beverages on Sunday be entirely prohibited. Other cities have such stringent regulations, including many which are rated as being far more cosmopolitan and liberal than our own city.

The regulation of traffic should have our earnest thought. Our downtown streets are jammed, the slaughter of our people has reached shameful proportions. My conviction is that traffic is a matter to be handled as a scientific and engineering problem without political considerations, and coupled with rigid enforcement. A recent federal survey should be revised to see if its main features cannot be given a fair trial. Traffic should be handled by some central authority, with complete power to act, regardless of political pressure.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT
SUPPORT IS URGED
While the department of public schools is divorced in its operation from the balance of our government, it is jammed in the education of our children is a matter of vital concern to us all and we should give this department a measure of sympathy and support commensurate with our finances and the necessity of maintaining other vital functions of government.

In this general connection, it should be the policy of this administration to be always ready to advise and counsel with any class or group of our citizens with reference to their problems.

In the matter of law enforcement, both you and the public are familiar with my general views and the platform upon which I received the endorsement of the people.

If there be but one thing about which the decent, law-abiding people of Atlanta are of one mind, it is that the present state of lawlessness should not be allowed to continue. It is in this respect about immaterial to be carried out to the fullest extent of the power of the new administration to do so.

The civil service regulations of this department should be made to mean what they were intended for, to wit: the procuring of honest, efficient and well-trained men, serving and being promoted upon a merit basis. Civil service should not be a dead letter for these purposes and be revised merely for the purpose of protecting inefficiency, laxity and political manipulation.

POLICE DEPARTMENT AND VOTERS' MANDATE
When the first mandate of the people in this respect, has been carried out, this department, which has many honest and reliable men, should be thoroughly purged of every inefficient person who is not doing his duty. It should then be turned over to the best leader obtainable and he should be allowed to run it, without political interference.

What has been done, rest assured that this department and its leader will have the full support of your chief executive in the fair and impartial enforcement of the law, to the satisfaction of the people, and that hundreds of good men, who are law violators who now infect our city may find it to their interest to bid us farewell forever.

In this connection, allow me to suggest the advisability of creating by legislative enactment the office of public safety director, to be appointed by the mayor and to have charge of both police and fire departments and the handling and supervision of all problems of traffic. This official, directly responsible to the executive head of the city, should have the power to name his own chiefs and they in turn their own officers to serve at their will and to have civil service protection only as members of the police and fire departments.

This plan is now in successful operation in many cities which have police departments which are rendered efficient and satisfactory service. It is the fact that as a city grows larger, the control of its departments of public safety involves a higher order of executive and administrative ability and contacts with the public, together with study and future planning, which an administrator of this type should be able to perform. It further fixes direct responsibility and enables the people to enforce their mandates with certainty and precision.

CONSISTENT ACTION URGED ON COUNCIL
In conclusion, gentlemen, let me say that after all, it is not our high resolutions and fine sounding words in the beginning of our administration that will restore public confidence and put our city upon a firm

PRICELESS PAINTING FOUND AFTER CENTURY

Restoration Proves Italian
Owned Work To Be That of Raphael.

ROME, Jan. 4.—(AP)—A priceless Raphael masterpiece, hidden and unknown for more than a hundred years and believed to depict a sweetheart of the great painter's youth, was disclosed to the world of art today by the director of the famous Borghese gallery here.

Professor Aldo De Rinaldis, head of the gallery, was authority for the revelation that what hitherto had been displayed as a painting of St. Catherine really is the work of the great Renaissance master. Its monetary value could not be estimated.

For more than a hundred years this picture has been attributed to the schools of Perugino or Ghirlandajo and so listed in the gallery's catalog. Professor De Rinaldis, however, said X-ray photographs disclosed that the head of St. Catherine and a cloak had been superimposed on the figure of a younger woman, holding a unicorn in her lap.

What the experts believe to be the original painting has been restored to the well-known style and color choice of the artist's early twenties and was painted about 1506, when Raphael lived in Florence. That was one of his most productive periods.

Recently several experts have been working on the theory that the picture was a genuine Raphael which had been altered. The restoration, which was carried out under the direction of Professor Augusto Cecconi-principi, proved the theory, they said.

Professor De Rinaldis uncovered in the archives of the gallery two 18th century documents which indicated that up to about 200 years ago the picture was regarded as the work of Raphael and that it had been placed in an exhibition room with other Raphaels.

The director said its similarity to the well-known style and color choice of Raphael is convincing evidence that the "unlocked St. Catherine" was painted by his hand.

As early as 1927 Roberto Longhi, widely-known Italian art critic, after careful study of this picture, advanced the theory it was a Raphael. It remained for the work of restoration to confirm this idea.

Googe, brother of George Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, came here from Washington, where he had been stationed for a year and a half.

He formerly was connected with the United States engineers office at Savannah.

OF ANY REMISSIONS
The various committees and department heads should further see to it that the many services for which the city makes a charge are not waived or given away, and properly billed and collected for. Extreme care should be exercised in the granting of any remissions or refunds of any nature. The sum of many such small items makes an impressive total at the end of a year.

I further recommend that every effort be made to induce Fulton county to assume what would appear to be a fairer share of those burdens of government in which they participate, such as street repairs, hospitalization and relief. The matter involved should not be merely a financial dispute as between two sets of elected officials, but the necessary governmental needs of some 270,000 citizens of the county and city, who are looking to both governments for fair play. In this matter I have the highest confidence in the fairness and sympathetic co-operation of our county officials and in a spirit of mutual friendship and co-operation, I believe they will find a way to aid their own citizens living in Atlanta.

METHOD OF FINANCING
RELIEF IS UNSOUND
One of our heaviest burdens has been that of relief. In this respect we have spent sums far in excess of any city of our size in the nation. Our method of financing it has been unsound. The amount appropriated must be drastically reduced. If the actual need be greater than our ability to provide, then other governmental agencies must come to our rescue. The state of Georgia should be called upon to assume such part of this burden as is beyond the capacity of local government to stand.

I recommend that an immediate effort be made to dispose of the old city hall property. The people were promised that its disposition would be used to ease the burden of the new city hall bonds when they were being passed upon by the voters. The putting of this property to private use would further increase the taxable value of our city.

It has been suggested that possibly we cannot long continue to furnish for the many and varied services which our city is endeavoring to give its taxpayers under the present sources of revenue. Without committing ourselves to the mere proposition of looking for more revenue, it is our first duty to exercise every possible economy and to promote every possible efficiency in our government before we give definite thought to asking the people to assume further burdens.

In view of the large expenditures which the city has already made on the John A. White park and golf course, and of the very evident necessity for a park in this general section, I recommend that every effort be made through some form of lease or rental arrangement, to preserve this property as a park until the city is in financial shape to purchase it at some fair price.

The legalization of wine and beer laws presents a new problem of enforcement and regulation and many of our citizens feel that we have not done our full duty in this respect.

INDISCRIMINATE SALE
OF ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES
Throughout our city are places where wine and beer are sold, which are nothing more nor less than dives and joints and they should be properly closed as fast as we can get to them. Never in the days before prohibition did we see in Atlanta the unrestrained and indiscriminate sale of alcoholic beverages on the part of almost any and every body, regardless of character or type of place.

I recommend that the most stringent regulations be placed about the sale of these beverages, including investigation of the character and reputation in the community of those who offer it for sale and a proper respect for the views of surrounding property owners.

I recommend that the license fees for the sale of these beverages be materially increased, which should automatically result in better regulation. I further recommend that the sale of any alcoholic beverages on Sunday be entirely prohibited. Other cities have such stringent regulations, including many which are rated as being far more cosmopolitan and liberal than our own city.

The regulation of traffic should have our earnest thought. Our downtown streets are jammed, the slaughter of our people has reached shameful proportions. My conviction is that traffic is a matter to be handled as a scientific and engineering problem without political considerations, and coupled with rigid enforcement. A recent federal survey should be revised to see if its main features cannot be given a fair trial. Traffic should be handled by some central authority, with complete power to act, regardless of political pressure.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT
SUPPORT IS URGED
While the department of public schools is divorced in its operation from the balance of our government, it is jammed in the education of our children is a matter of vital concern to us all and we should give this department a measure of sympathy and support commensurate with our finances and the necessity of maintaining other vital functions of government.

In this general connection, it should be the policy of this administration to be always ready to advise and counsel with any class or group of our citizens with reference to their problems.

In the matter of law enforcement, both you and the public are familiar with my general views and the platform upon which I received the endorsement of the people.

If there be but one thing about which the decent, law-abiding people of Atlanta are of one mind, it is that the present state of lawlessness should not be allowed to continue. It is in this respect about immaterial to be carried out to the fullest extent of the power of the new administration to do so.

Barrett Is Honored by Outgoing Council

Mayor Pro Tem Ellis B. Barrett, presiding officer of the outgoing 39-member council, is shown receiving a watch last night from Councilman Aubrey Milam, who also retired. The watch was the gift of the old council to Barrett in appreciation of his service.

Full Text of Hartsfield's Speech After Inauguration Last Night

Mayor Hartsfield's speech, delivered last night to council at his inauguration, follows in full:

Gentlemen of the General Council:

We are taking office tonight under very trying circumstances. We find our city struggling under a heavy load of debt, with an admitted deficit of nearly $1,700,000. We find the great majority of our merchandise bills for the past year still unpaid, with script in the hands of our merchants, with an indefinite due date.

We further find ourselves liable for over $800,000 in script paid to employees in lieu of cash for the past two months. We further find ourselves saddled with $1,277,000 in so-called relief bonds, refundable upon a ten-year basis. Due to our inability to run the city upon a cash basis, we find ourselves paying large amounts of interest which would otherwise be unnecessary.

In the face of these facts, I am informed that the total and apparently necessary demands of our departments this year will aggregate some $400,000 more than the revenue which we can reasonably anticipate.

MANDATE TO CEASE
ADDING TO DEFICIT
The plain mandate of the people is that we should cease adding to the heavy deficit which now hobbles us. To rehabilitate and strengthen our financial position is going to require the utmost courage and fortitude on the part of each and every member of this council, and what is more, it is going to require a similar attitude on the part of our department heads.

The general council, with the co-operation of department heads, should undertake an intelligent revision of our salary scales, which are now admittedly upon a haphazard basis.

They should further institute an immediate survey of each department, with the fullest co-operation of our department heads, to ascertain and cull from the lists every inefficient and non-absolutely necessary for the efficient operation of our government.

CARE IN GRANTING OF ANY REMISSIONS
The various committees and department heads should further see to it that the many services for which the city makes a charge are not waived or given away, and properly billed and collected for. Extreme care should be exercised in the granting of any remissions or refunds of any nature. The sum of many such small items makes an impressive total at the end of a year.

It is in this respect about immaterial to be carried out to the fullest extent of the power of the new administration to do so.

The civil service regulations of this department should be made to mean what they were intended for, to wit: the procuring of honest, efficient and well-trained men, serving and being promoted upon a merit basis. Civil service should not be a dead letter for these purposes and be revised merely for the purpose of protecting inefficiency, laxity and political manipulation.

POLICE DEPARTMENT AND VOTERS' MANDATE
When the first mandate of the people in this respect, has been carried out, this department, which has many honest and reliable men, should be thoroughly purged of every inefficient person who is not doing his duty. It should then be turned over to the best leader obtainable and he should be allowed to run it, without political interference.

What has been done, rest assured that this department and its leader will have the full support of your chief executive in the fair and impartial enforcement of the law, to the satisfaction of the people, and that hundreds of good men, who are law violators who now infect our city may find it to their interest to bid us farewell forever.

In this connection, allow me to suggest the advisability of creating by legislative enactment the office of public safety director, to be appointed by the mayor and to have charge of both police and fire departments and the handling and supervision of all problems of traffic. This official, directly responsible to the executive head of the city, should have the power to name his own chiefs and they in turn their own officers to serve at their will and to have civil service protection only as members of the police and fire departments.

This plan is now in successful operation in many cities which have police departments which are rendered efficient and satisfactory service. It is the fact that as a city grows larger, the control of its departments of public safety involves a higher order of executive and administrative ability and contacts with the public, together with study and future planning, which an administrator of this type should be able to perform. It further fixes direct responsibility and enables the people to enforce

The following statement was posted on the bulletin boards of all General Motors domestic manufacturing operations this morning and is reproduced here for the information of all concerned.

To All Employees of General Motors Corporation

In view of the fact that several of our manufacturing plants have been forced to close down, possibly necessitating similar closing on the part of others in the not distant future, and realizing that this means a great deal to you and your families, as well as to the business, it seems only fair that I should tell you the circumstances that have brought this about in order that you may better understand and therefore judge more intelligently.

First, let me say that General Motors products were never in greater demand than today. This good business insures plenty of jobs, with generous hours of employment, for some time to come. Wages are higher today, by far, than the corporation ever paid before. And, not only that, but the amount that each dollar buys is importantly greater than it was during the last period of good business, 1929. Again, important progress has been made in providing steadier work through the year; thus on these and every other count General Motors workers are earning more than they ever have in the entire history of General Motors, and as much, if not more, than the workers of any other business. No one can honestly say otherwise.

Yet under these conditions you are being forced out of your jobs by sit-down strikes, by widespread intimidation, and by shortage of materials produced by similar tactics in many allied industries. Your employment and wages and the welfare of your families are being endangered by actions beyond your control and that of your company. The same ruthless tactics are threatening the general recovery of business, in which the automobile industry had the leading part.

You are being told you had better join a union. You are being told that to bargain collectively you must be a member of a labor organization. You are being told that the automotive industry is to be run as a closed shop. You are being told that if you do not join now it will be impossible for you to work in any automobile plant when the union wins, unless you pay. In other words, you will be without a job, therefore, you must sign up, pay dues, or else.

I want to say to you most frankly, that this is positively not so. Do not be misled. Have no fear that any union or any labor dictator will dominate the plants of General Motors Corporation. No General Motors worker need join any organization to get a job or to keep a job.

General Motors grew up on the principle that a worker's job and his promotion depend on his own individual ability---not on the say-so of any labor dictator. And on that principle, General Motors stands and will continue to stand. Many of the men who operate General Motors plants came up from a worker's bench. You know them. You see them on the job every day. They are the ones who design our products and plan their manufacture. It is your work and their work, financed by our stockholders and sold to the public at large all over the world which makes jobs and wages possible---nothing more or less, and that will always be so.

Neither is it necessary for you to join any organization in order to bargain collectively. General Motors is pledged to collective bargaining on the basis of absolute and un-influenced freedom of choice on the part of any worker to join any organization without coercion, restraint or intimidation. General Motors stated its position most completely on this important principle of employer-employee relationship in August, 1934. You were duly notified. General Motors practices that form of collective bargaining continuously, as honestly and intelligently as it knows how.

I mention all this because efforts are being made, in various ways, to make you as well as the public believe that General Motors refuses to bargain collectively with its workers and exercises discrimination against men who elect to join one organization or another. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

But, after all, this is not the real issue that has brought about the situation that we face today. That real issue is perfectly clear, and here it is:---

Will a labor organization run the plants of General Motors Corporation or will the management continue to do so? On this issue depends the question as to whether you have to have a union card to hold a job, or whether your job will depend in the future, as it has in the past, upon your own individual merit. In other words, will you pay to a private group of labor dictators for the privilege of working, or will you have the right to work as you may desire? Wages, working conditions, honest collective bargaining have little, if anything, to do with the underlying situation. They are simply a smoke screen to cover the real objective.

Now, you are entitled to know what General Motors position is. That is the real purpose of this message to you. Here it is:---

1. General Motors will not recognize any union as the sole bargaining agency for its workers, to the exclusion of all others. General Motors will continue to recognize, for the purpose of collective bargaining, the representatives of its workers, whether union or non-union.

2. Work in General Motors plants will continue to depend on the ability and efficiency of the worker---not on the membership or non-membership in any labor organization whatsoever. This means that you do not have to pay tribute to anyone for the right to work.

3. General Motors will continue to pay the highest justifiable wages in the future, as it has in the past, and just as it is doing at present. It believes in high wages. It is justly proud of its record in that respect.

4. General Motors standard work week will continue to be forty hours. Time and a half will be paid for over-time.

5. Seniority rights will be observed under the rules laid down by the Automobile Labor Board appointed by the president of the United States in March, 1934. These rules are recognized as fair and just to all workers and permit no discrimination against any worker on account of any organization membership.

I tell you all this not only in your own interest, but in the interest of your family and for the future progress and stability of the business, as well. And, let me add, that General Motors will continue to keep its plants going just as long as its workers can safely work, and as long as we are able to obtain the essential materials from other plants on which we are dependent in order to build our various products. I realize what this situation means to you. It has been brought about through no lack of effort on the part of the management of General Motors Corporation to make the business a good business, not only for the workers and for the stockholders, but likewise a contributing factor to the prosperity of the country, and, after all, that means much to all of us.

TAX PROBE BEING MADE IN REPORTED 'LEAKS' OF CONFIDENTIAL DATA

Inquiry Ordered When Number of Attorneys Receive News on Controversy.

By SANDER S. KLEIN. (Copyright 1937, by United Press.) WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(UP)—Secret investigation into reported "leaks" of confidential tax information from the Internal Revenue Bureau is being made by agents of the bureau's intelligence unit, the United Press learned tonight.

The inquiry is under the personal direction of Elmer L. Irey, chief of the intelligence unit. It was understood to have the approval of Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr.

The investigation was undertaken after information reached the treasury that a number of tax attorneys had received data on tax controversies. The data is available only in the confidential files of the Internal Revenue Bureau.

It was pointed out that suspicion does not attach to any particular member of the bureau's personnel. The leaks, it was explained, might conceivably have come from another source. A tax expert explained that confidential information may be filtering out through a channel left by the "green slip" law. Under this act, state tax officials may investigate federal income tax returns to determine whether a taxpayer has reported properly in making a state return.

Efforts have been made in recent years to strengthen regulations governing lawyers practicing before the bureau.

The bureau also has sought to halt a practice of some members of its legal staff, which was to resign to represent tax payers involved in important tax disputes with the treasury. One of the measures prescribes that no former employee may practice before the board for two years following their resignation.

Auto Union Replies With Demand for Conference on 'Basic Issues'

DETROIT, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The General Motors Corporation announced tonight that it "will not recognize any union as the sole bargaining agency of its workers" and at the same time the United Automobile Workers of America reiterated its demands for a conference to negotiate "certain fundamental issues."

The corporation's statement was contained in a notice released in New York by Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president, and transmitted to the 35 cities in which it has its 60 domestic plants for posting on bulletin boards tomorrow.

Homer S. Martin, international president of the United Automobile Workers of America, dispatched another letter to Sloan and William S. Knudsen, General Motors executive vice president, outlining "fundamental issues for which there must be a national policy fixed by your corporation."

General Strike Authorized. The eight points enumerated were approved Sunday by union representatives of General Motors branches in 13 cities when they assembled at Flint and authorized a board of strategy to call a general strike against the corporation if it deemed this necessary to obtain the objectives of the U. A. W.

Sloan's statement to his firm's employees said the "real issue" is: "Will a labor organization run the plants of General Motors Corporation or will the management management control?"

"Have no fear that any union or any labor director will dominate the plants of General Motors Corporation," Sloan continued. "No General Motors worker need join any organization to get a job or keep a job."

"Neither is it necessary for you to join any organization in order to bargain collectively. General Motors is willing to negotiate on the basis of absolute and unqualified freedom of choice on the part of any worker to join any organization without coercion, restraint or intimidation."

Sloan's Five Points. Sloan said the following five points described the corporation's position: "1. General Motors will not recognize any union as the sole bargaining agency for its workers, to the exclusion of all others. General Motors will continue to recognize, for the purpose of collective bargaining, the representatives of its workers, whether union or non-union."

"2. Work in General Motors plants will continue to depend on the ability and efficiency of the workers. The membership or non-membership in any labor organization whatsoever. This means that you do not have to pay tribute to any one for the right to work."

"3. General Motors will continue to pay the highest justifiable wages in the future, as it has in the past, and just as it is doing at present. It believes in high wages. It is justly proud of its record in this respect."

"4. General Motors standard work week will continue to be 40 hours. Time and a half will be paid for overtime."

"5. Seniority rights will be observed under the rules laid down by the automobile labor board appointed by the President of the United States in March, 1934. These rights are recognized as fair and just to all workers and permit no discrimination against any workers on account of any organization membership."

Union Rejects Plan. The union president said he could not accept the suggestion of corporation officials that they negotiate with individual plant managers because employees have encountered widespread discrimination and wholesale discharges because of their mere affiliation with this union at the hands of plant managers.

"In other words," Martin's letter tonight to the corporation executives said, "there appears to be a nationwide policy on the part of the General Motors Corporation not to permit the organization of a union among the employees."

Martin said he recognized that there were "diverse factors among the various plants . . . but it also must be recognized that, with respect to certain fundamental policies, they are adopted and fixed by the national executive officers of your corporation."

Fundamental Issues. "It is with respect to a few such fundamental issues, which can only be accepted by the executive officers of your corporation, that this organization demands a conference with you for the purpose of negotiating the same, looking toward a national agreement between the international union, United Automobile Workers of America, and the General Motors Corporation."

Martin said the chief points the U. A. W. desired to have considered "cover the recognition of the union by the corporation for the purpose of collective bargaining, recognition of seniority rights for the purpose of maintaining job security for the employees, the elimination of the speed-up system, and the establishment of a minimum wage which would assure a decent standard of living to your employees."

40,000 Workers Idle. Nearly 40,000 General Motors employees are idle because of U. A. W. strikes closing eight plants, and shut-downs of five other units of the corporation's automotive divisions. Barring unforeseen quick settlement of disputes, approximately 135,000 will be without work by the end of the week, a company official said, adding that complete suspension would cost employees $1,000,000 daily in wages and the company approximately $330,000 daily in net profits.

At Flint, Mich., 500 strikers held their posts in two plants of the Fisher Body Company, a General Motors division, for the third day in a row. A sweeping circuit court injunction obtained by the company. No bench warrants, a prerequisite to their arrest or forcible ejection, had been issued late tonight. A copy of the injunction, however, was served upon Martin in Detroit today.

A committee of company officials and attorneys labored to make the working of the injunction flawless, with a view to testing the company's power to use that means of preventing "sit-down" or "stay-in" strikes.

Governor Frank Murphy, of Michigan, and Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor at Washington, expressed their readiness to mediate in the dispute between the union and the automobile concern.

Members of the United Automobile Workers' union, employed at the Chevrolet motor plant at Toledo, went on strike tonight.

W. M. Weldshofer, plant manager, said he was informed of the strike at his home and declared the plant had experienced "no trouble." All

Homer S. Martin, international president of the United Automobile Workers of America, dispatched another letter to Sloan and William S. Knudsen, General Motors executive vice president, outlining "fundamental issues for which there must be a national policy fixed by your corporation."

General Strike Authorized. The eight points enumerated were approved Sunday by union representatives of General Motors branches in 13 cities when they assembled at Flint and authorized a board of strategy to call a general strike against the corporation if it deemed this necessary to obtain the objectives of the U. A. W.

Sloan's statement to his firm's employees said the "real issue" is: "Will a labor organization run the plants of General Motors Corporation or will the management management control?"

"Have no fear that any union or any labor director will dominate the plants of General Motors Corporation," Sloan continued. "No General Motors worker need join any organization to get a job or keep a job."

"Neither is it necessary for you to join any organization in order to bargain collectively. General Motors is willing to negotiate on the basis of absolute and unqualified freedom of choice on the part of any worker to join any organization without coercion, restraint or intimidation."

Sloan's Five Points. Sloan said the following five points described the corporation's position: "1. General Motors will not recognize any union as the sole bargaining agency for its workers, to the exclusion of all others. General Motors will continue to recognize, for the purpose of collective bargaining, the representatives of its workers, whether union or non-union."

"2. Work in General Motors plants will continue to depend on the ability and efficiency of the workers. The membership or non-membership in any labor organization whatsoever. This means that you do not have to pay tribute to any one for the right to work."

"3. General Motors will continue to pay the highest justifiable wages in the future, as it has in the past, and just as it is doing at present. It believes in high wages. It is justly proud of its record in this respect."

"4. General Motors standard work week will continue to be 40 hours. Time and a half will be paid for overtime."

"5. Seniority rights will be observed under the rules laid down by the automobile labor board appointed by the President of the United States in March, 1934. These rights are recognized as fair and just to all workers and permit no discrimination against any workers on account of any organization membership."

Union Rejects Plan. The union president said he could not accept the suggestion of corporation officials that they negotiate with individual plant managers because employees have encountered widespread discrimination and wholesale discharges because of their mere affiliation with this union at the hands of plant managers.

"In other words," Martin's letter tonight to the corporation executives said, "there appears to be a nationwide policy on the part of the General Motors Corporation not to permit the organization of a union among the employees."

Martin said he recognized that there were "diverse factors among the various plants . . . but it also must be recognized that, with respect to certain fundamental policies, they are adopted and fixed by the national executive officers of your corporation."

Fundamental Issues. "It is with respect to a few such fundamental issues, which can only be accepted by the executive officers of your corporation, that this organization demands a conference with you for the purpose of negotiating the same, looking toward a national agreement between the international union, United Automobile Workers of America, and the General Motors Corporation."

Martin said the chief points the U. A. W. desired to have considered "cover the recognition of the union by the corporation for the purpose of collective bargaining, recognition of seniority rights for the purpose of maintaining job security for the employees, the elimination of the speed-up system, and the establishment of a minimum wage which would assure a decent standard of living to your employees."

40,000 Workers Idle. Nearly 40,000 General Motors employees are idle because of U. A. W. strikes closing eight plants, and shut-downs of five other units of the corporation's automotive divisions. Barring unforeseen quick settlement of disputes, approximately 135,000 will be without work by the end of the week, a company official said, adding that complete suspension would cost employees $1,000,000 daily in wages and the company approximately $330,000 daily in net profits.

At Flint, Mich., 500 strikers held their posts in two plants of the Fisher Body Company, a General Motors division, for the third day in a row. A sweeping circuit court injunction obtained by the company. No bench warrants, a prerequisite to their arrest or forcible ejection, had been issued late tonight. A copy of the injunction, however, was served upon Martin in Detroit today.

A committee of company officials and attorneys labored to make the working of the injunction flawless, with a view to testing the company's power to use that means of preventing "sit-down" or "stay-in" strikes.

Governor Frank Murphy, of Michigan, and Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor at Washington, expressed their readiness to mediate in the dispute between the union and the automobile concern.

Members of the United Automobile Workers' union, employed at the Chevrolet motor plant at Toledo, went on strike tonight.

W. M. Weldshofer, plant manager, said he was informed of the strike at his home and declared the plant had experienced "no trouble." All but about 75 of the night shift walked out, workers said.

STRIKE CONFERENCES CONTINUE ON COAST. SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Radio operators and shipowners met today in a resumption of maritime strike peace conferences, but both sides in the 67-day walkout appeared to be awaiting possible legislation by congress before taking major action.

The radio workers, smallest group of the seven unions on strike, want continuation of hiring from lists made up by the union, and a working day of eight hours straight in the management's hands.

The group adjourned without announcement, after about two hours, and members indicated they probably would meet again tomorrow.

STRIKE FRONT SPLIT IN NEW YORK SEEN. (Copyright 1937, by United Press.) NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(UP)—A half dozen sources in the insurgent seamen's strike on the east coast told the United Press tonight that striking seamen had begun a movement to elect Joseph Curran, their leader, and return to work.

The informants included strike leaders, steamship company officials and a group of seamen. They agreed that the insurgent strike, which began October 29, was losing ground rapidly and that the strike fund was exhausted.

All strike leaders said the men were embittered by loss of their jobs and had decided to take a poll at a mass meeting Wednesday on whether to return to work. He said the men were divided on the issue.

The joint marine strike council said the report was "absolutely untrue." It said the United Press dispatch "is true in every detail and bears out our previous statements."

At strike headquarters today it was learned that $5 could not be raised to buy paper for the seamen's strike bulletin. It was decided to wait for a $50 check from a painters' union local.

2 U. S. ARMY AIRMEN DIE IN ILLINOIS CRASH

RANTOUL, Ill., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Captain Reginald Gillespie and Sergeant Clarence Suduth, army fliers, stationed at Chanute field, here, were killed today. Their plane crashed in a vacant lot of the residential section of Rantoul.

Captain Gillespie's home was listed as Seattle, Wash.; Sergeant Suduth's as Ridge Farm, Ill.

Major James Duke, adjutant at the field, said the two were on a routine flight. "I can't say what caused the crash," Major Duke said, "a board will have to be appointed to make a full investigation. The plane did not burn."

Both men, he said, were the same age—36. Captain Gillespie is survived by his mother, Mrs. A. R. Gillespie, living in Spokane, Wash., and his wife, who resides here. Sergeant Suduth left a widow and two children who also live here.

107 PERSONS RESCUED FROM GROUNDING SHIP. MOSCOW, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Reports of the rescue on Christmas Day of 107 passengers of the steamer Kamo who had lived in snow houses more than two weeks were received today from the steamer Sakhalin.

The Kamo, off Karagin island, near Kamchatka, lost its way December 9 and drifted on the rocks in extremely cold weather, the report said.

Furs in the vessel's hold were salvaged by the passengers who, after reaching shore, burrowed into snowbanks. A baby was born to one of the passengers before the rescue on Christmas Day.

5 MISSING YOUTHS RETURN FROM OCEAN. TARPON SPRINGS, Fla., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Five youths reported missing last night, reaching home safe tonight, disabled open speedboat borne to shore over night by a friendly Gulf of Mexico tide.

News of their arrival halted the search of three vessels sent out to patrol the waters when the young men failed to return from a trip to a fishing bank five miles off the mouth of the Anclote river.

Today Is Christmas For Carolina Village. RODANTHE, N. C., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Stockings were hung by the chimney with care in Rodanthe tonight, fruit cakes were made ready for the morning's cutting, for here it was Christmas Eve.

To the people of Rodanthe, spray-swept dot on a sand bank that bar the ocean from the North Carolina sounds, December 25 is just another day. But Epiphany Eve, with the night before it, is a lowly Christmas Eve. It is a time for the giving of gifts, for making merry and for worship.

Epiphany itself, the twelfth night or old Christmas Eve, is a fact that January 5 has been Christmas Day in Rodanthe as far back as the oldest resident can remember.

Duke Asked to Read Lesson, Pastor Says

VIENNA, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Chaplain C. H. D. Grimes, pastor of Vienna's English church, who declared Anglican church officials had asked him to explain why he allowed the Duke of Windsor to read a Christmas Scripture lesson from the lectern, disclosed the Duke himself suggested he read the lesson.

"I saw no reason why he should not participate and I have received letters from many English persons and Americans and the general public expressing delight that the former King took part," he said.

English prelates want to know, he continued, why he did not ask for advice before he allowed the former King to read the story of the Nativity during the Christmas Day services.

Justice William H. Ellis said the city officials were removed in a "dictatorial sort of way" and declared attorneys for the Armstrong administration acted promptly in "asking circuit court to restrain these interlopers (the Sholtz appointees) from throwing out elected officials."

Men Not Elected. At this point Justice Davis mentioned that three of the removed commissioners, including the woman commissioner-mayor, were not elected by the people but appointed by the commission when former Mayor Edward Armstrong and two board members resigned. The mayor and one commissioner were succeeded by their wives, bringing from Sholtz an accusation of hiding behind their wives' skirts because they feared removal.

"We could settle all this," Justice Rivers H. Buford remarked, "if we wanted to usurp the authority but I think they should settle down there. A superadeas would just cause more confusion and there's enough of that already."

Justice Ellis described the proceedings today as "haphazard" and said a complete record of the circuit court action should be presented at Friday's hearing.

"I've done my duty. I'm through with it now," Sholtz said here today. "It's up to the courts from now on."

While declining to take immediate jurisdiction in the outer case, the supreme court agreed to hear both sides Friday morning. This delayed a hearing in Volusia county circuit court this afternoon on a temporary injunction by which the women mayor and her associates kept office and possession of city records despite the Governor's removal orders, his appointment of successors and the mobilization of national guardsmen.

City Hall Closed. Daytona Beach's city hall remained closed today through an extension of the New Year's Day holiday. Armed policemen, stationed in the building by the determined housewife and grandmother who refused to surrender the office in which she succeeded her husband less than a month ago, continued to guard municipal records.

Attorneys for Harry Wilcox and others, whom Sholtz appointed to succeed the ousted woman mayor and all but one city commissioner, asked the six supreme court justices today for an order immediately nullifying the injunction by which the Armstrong faction succeeded in holding office. The validity of a special legislative act authorizing the Governor to remove Daytona Beach city officials for excessive expenditures—the chief executive does not have jurisdiction over other city officials in Florida—was the point at issue.

Justice Fred H. Davis said the delay in hearing the case would give both sides an opportunity to see if Cone takes a hand in the matter after his inauguration, "assuming he has that power."

ROOSEVELT SUGGESTS RAIL LEADERS CONFER ON RETIREMENT PLAN

President Says Taxes Under Latest Act Will Expire February 28.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The White House disclosed today that President Roosevelt had proposed a conference between railroad management and employees looking to an "amicable solution" of a controversy over a railroad retirement law.

Correspondence showed that the President had suggested such a meeting in a letter dated December 28 to J. J. Poley, president of the Association of American Railroads, and G. M. Harrison, head of the Railway Labor Executives' Association.

Roth Poley and Harrison replied that a conference probably would be held this month.

The President pointed out that the taxes under the latest retirement act, passed by Congress after the Supreme Court had invalidated one law on the subject, expire February 28 and that further consideration by Congress would be necessary early in the session beginning tomorrow.

"In order that Congress might have the benefit of joint recommendations I suggest a conference on these matters," his letter said.

The first retirement law carried taxes to support pensions for workers. When this was ruled unconstitutional, Congress enacted a pension act without taxes. Then it passed a separate act taxing the income of railroads and employees.

Assailing this plan as unconstitutional also, railroads contended Congress split the two provisions up to circumvent the Supreme Court's opinion.

SUICIDE IS VERDICT IN DR. CARNES' DEATH

Police Reveal Veterinarian Left Two Other Notes Before Ending Life.

An inquest yesterday afternoon on the death of Dr. W. E. Carnes, of 629 Elmwood drive, N. E., brought a verdict that the veterinarian "came to his death from a gunshot wound, self-inflicted."

Dr. Carnes was found Sunday morning dead from a bullet wound in his head. The shooting occurred at the veterinarian's dog and cat hospital on Edgewood avenue.

Two other notes in addition to the one sent to relatives in Philadelphia and Indianapolis were revealed yesterday by detectives investigating the death.

One of the notes, addressed to B., was dated 11 a. m. Sunday and read: "Dislike humiliation. Be good boy. See porter and sell what I have—clippers, etc. Give Fred Sneed, my best friend, $35. Love, D."

Another note, addressed to Luther Stephens, a friend who discovered the body, said:

"Am leaving here. Park me by Thomas Evans on our Masonic lot in Oakland. Don't want to violate any Masonic code. No suicide planted there before. Comply and omit flowers. Have Dr. Witherspoon Dodge, my friend, say only a few words. Lamps Gang might sing. Cheap funeral and make it snappy. Like Andy says, 'It's bad,' but carry out these instructions. You assume charge. No inquest necessary. Meet me at Brandon Road-Condor. I have wired Eloy and Z."

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Peachtree chapel, with the Rev. Witherspoon Dodge officiating. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

Holland Is Seeking To Avert Strife In Marriage of Juliana, Bernhard

Nazi Charge Dutch With Disrespect; Says No German Songs Are To Be Played, No Flags To Fly at Ceremony.

THE HAGUE, THE NETHERLANDS, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The Dutch government, with a sharp note of protest to Germany, sought tonight to prevent the "family marriage" of Princess Juliana from bringing about serious international complications.

The heiress to Holland's throne is to be married here next Thursday to Prince Bernhard Zu Lippe-Biesterfeld, of Germany. Discord arose because of Nazi charges disrespect had been shown Germany in the Dutch failure to display German national flags and play the German national anthem in wedding festivities.

The Hague's protest centered on alleged delay in providing passports for three German princesses who were to have been bridesmaids. This, it was asserted, constituted "an insult to the Queen," Wilhelmina, the bride's mother.

These passports now have been granted, but authoritative sources said one of the princesses, Sophie of Saxony-Weimar-Eisenach, has abandoned plans to attend the wedding.

The other princesses involved are Sieglinde and Elizabeth Zu Lippe. All three are cousins of the bridegroom.

Because the passport difficulty has been settled, authorities here indicated no formal reply to the protest was expected.

The note was handed to the German foreign office today by the Dutch minister.

Queen Wilhelmina, undeterred by disagreement with Berlin, went ahead with plans to make her daughter's wedding the most colorful ceremony Holland has known since her own marriage in 1901 to Henry, Duke of Mecklenburg, who died in 1934.

She went to the station today to welcome her brother-in-law, the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg, and his wife.

Tonight her royal relatives were entertained.

The small white royal palace was festooned with branches of evergreens and bore over the door the traditional Dutch wedding motto, "Long live the bridal pair."

Steel-helmeted sentries before the palace presented arms as distinguished guests arrived. Many of these must stay at hotels because all royal residences in The Hague are filled.

Prince Bernhard, still suffering from a cold, remained indoors today. He missed a sports festival held in his honor.

If the Nazis want fresh opportunity for complaints of Dutch disrespect it apparently will be available tomorrow night, when a royal musicale is to be given. On the program is "Lippe Detmold," anthem of the German principality Prince Bernhard's family once ruled and one of the causes of friction between Holland and Germany.

Nazis complained this tune has been played in The Hague instead of "Horst Wessel," hymn of Nazi Germany. The Dutch note of protest explained this was due to the fact the marriage is a "family affair," and that The Hague saw no reason the Nazi hymn should be played for "a former German subject." Moreover, it saw no reason to fly the German national colors. Hence only the emblem of Lippe had been flown with the Dutch flag.

Prince Bernhard Saturday tried to temper the dispute by requesting that only the Dutch national anthem hereafter be played in his presence. This was not mentioned in the official summary of the Dutch protest.

Leon Degrelle, so-called Belgian Hitler, was fined 30 cents for his part in the October, 1936, street riots in Belgium.

SIX-YEAR RECORD SET BY BUILDING PERMITS

Construction and Repairs Totalling $4,422,223 for '36 Highest Since '30.

Valuation of city building permits broke a six-year record in Atlanta during 1936. A. C. McDaniel, assistant inspector of buildings, announced yesterday.

The city issued a total of 2,883 permits valued at $4,422,223 during the year, the best figures since 1930, when 3,475 permits valued at $8,924,099 were issued.

Permits in December of 1936 dropped off from the number in the preceding month. November permits, 246, were valued at $465,099 while 122 permits totaling $170,054 were issued in December.

Totals for 1936 were considerably higher than the previous year when 2,998 permits for $2,557,881 worth of construction and repairs were allowed. Buildings to house 544 families were erected during the last year, the building report stated. At a cost of $1,246, 128, 362 one-family frame dwellings were built, and 35 duplex dwellings costing $73,150 were constructed. Fifty-six brick business houses costing $884,729 and 20 frame business buildings totaling $26,879 were erected.

According to permits, $1,495,718 worth of alterations and repairs were made during the year. Four apartment houses, costing $33,150 were constructed.

ed and eight churches for $26,350 were built. Seven brick residences to cost $25,200 were also listed in the report.

Miss Reckerman Becomes Bride Of Mr. Hayes

Miss Emma Reckerman became the bride of Joseph E. Hayes at a quiet ceremony taking place last Saturday at high noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hansford Sams on South Candler street in Decatur. Dr. D. P. McGeehy, pastor of the Decatur Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate family and close friends.

Miss Betty Sams rendered appropriate musical selections, and the ceremony was performed in front of the bay window, at the end of the drawing room before an improvised altar formed of palms and ferns and baskets of Easter lilies with seven branched candelabra holding white tapers on either side.

Mrs. James Hayes, of Charlotte, N. C., was matron of honor and wore a gown of peach-colored mousseline de soie posed over tulle and she carried a bouquet of talisman roses.

Miss Vezzie Sams was maid of honor and wore green mousseline de soie posed over tulle to match and carried talisman roses.

Little Miss Agnes Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Scott, was flower girl and her frock was made of pale blue georgette and she carried a nosegay of sweetheart roses.

The lovely bride entered alone and was met at the altar by the groom and James Hayes, who was best man.

The bride wore a gown of bridal satin fashioned along princess lines, with long sleeves which fitted snugly at the wrists and trimmed with tiny satin buttons. The skirt flared below the knees to the floor and extended into a train at the back. The face and tulle veil was fitted to the bride's hair with clusters of orange blossoms on either side. She carried a round bouquet of valley lilies tied with satin ribbon.

After the wedding service an informal reception was held. Mrs. Sams received the guests wearing a gown of blue velvet with a shoulder cluster of valley lilies.

Mrs. Theodore Cobb, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Julius Scott presided at the coffee table, which was overlaid with a cloth of coral and lace and centered with an arrangement of white roses and valley lilies.

Mr. Hayes and his bride left for a wedding trip, after which they will reside in Griffin. Following the bride chose a brown wool suit with brown accessories and a blouse of eggshell satin.

Eugene Daniel, of Jackson, performed the ceremony in the presence of immediate relatives and a few close friends.

The bride, a beautiful brunette, with brown eyes and brown hair, wore a becoming costume of gold satin and a bouquet of talisman roses and valley lilies adorned her shoulder. She is a charming and attractive young woman, who possesses an engaging smile and a magnetic personality.

Mrs. Green is the daughter of Mrs. P. C. Hill and the late Mr. Hill, of Columbus. She is a sister of Mrs. Gertrude Hill Rivers, of Miami; P. D. Hill, of Marietta, and Jack Hill, U. S. A., of Candler field.

My Day By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Sunday—I said goodbye to Franklin Jr. on Friday afternoon and took the 5 o'clock train to New York, expecting to have a chance to see a friend that evening. I went from the station straight to her apartment and rang the bell. After a long time the door was opened and I discovered that she had expected me at 5:30. Being very weary she had gone to bed thinking something strange had happened to me, because, as she said, "You usually let people know when you change your mind." Needless to say, I did not keep her up for long but went to my own abode.

On Saturday morning, after I had hurried through a few errands, Mrs. Scheider and I took the train for Washington. Johnnie and Betsy, James' wife, met me at the station, and as we drove up they told me funny little incidents about the grandchildren.

Chandler, Elliott's little girl, not quite three, seems to have an independent spirit. At 6 a. m. one day, the night watchman in the White House picked her up in the basement where she was wandering around unconcerned in her night clothes. He took her to the third floor, knocked on the first door he came to, which happened to be little Kate's room, and, pointing at Chandler under his arm, said to the nurse: "Does this belong to you? I found it in the basement."

Chandler had awakened in a room next to her mother and father and, finding no one to entertain her, had walked out to explore the world by herself. Since then, she has had no other adventures. This one, of course, filled the boys with glee.

At the door of the White House the usher greeted me with the little card plaque on which I sat the diners. I laughed and said: "Must I do that before I take my hat off?" Johnnie cheerfully replied: "I'll seat the table for you."

After greeting everyone in the house, I rapidly fell into the usual routine, seated the table for dinner, started to go through the mail on my desk, and then decided to look at my Christmas presents.

On nights of big receptions we have to dine at 7 o'clock, as the reception begins at 9. My son, Elliott, and his wife have two young couples from Fort Worth, Dr. and Mrs. Violette and Mr. and Mrs. McCurdy, staying with them, so we made quite a party.

Our children wanted to hear all the introductions last night, so they lined up behind us during the diplomatic reception. I think some of the diplomats must have wondered who the very tall boys with the two charming but diminutive ladies were. I felt that it needed only a few grandchildren peeping out from behind the palms to make the family picture complete.

I well remember the time that my own small children hid behind the screen at a large dinner party in their night clothes and crawled out across the hall in full view after we were in the dining room! (Copyright, 1937, by The Constitution.)

Miss Virginia Hart Presented To Society at Club Luncheon

Miss Virginia Hart was formally presented to society at the lovely and unique luncheon at which her mother, Mrs. Hamilton Hart, was hostess yesterday at the Druid Hills Golf Club. The spacious ballroom of the club was decorated to represent an outdoor gypsy scene, and quantities of graceful tree limbs and greenery were used in effective arrangement. Tables with covers laid for four were placed about the room, their cloths being bright red and white gingham. Forming the central table decorations were black boiling pots on tripods filled with various colored flowers. A camp scene was depicted at the far end of the room on a platform, which was adorned with pine boughs and cones. A drop curtain revealed a group of entertainers in gypsy costumes gathered around a large boiling pot, who sang and played during the luncheon. Another interesting attraction was the soothsayer who told the guests' fortunes.

Mrs. Hart, Miss Virginia Hart and Miss Mary King Hart, sister of the debutante, received the guests standing at the entrance of the club before a background of palms and baskets and bouquets of flowers sent the popular young debutante by her many friends. Mrs. Hart was gowned in black crepe featuring a low décolletage with a standing tiered collar in the back. Her hat was an off-the-face model of black felt, and she wore a shoulder bouquet of orchids. Miss Virginia Hart chose for her debut dress a stunning model of black tulle with short, puffed sleeves and a wide, flaring skirt. Her hat was of black suede, and gracing her shoulder was a cluster of orchids.

Miss Mary King Hart wore black crepe trimmed with jade green jeweled clips, and her hat was fashioned of jade green velvet. Her flowers were orchids.

Assisting in entertaining were Mesdames Julian Thomas, Murdoch Equen, Toulman Hurt, William Akers, Claude C. Smith and George E. King. Invited to this delightful affair were the members of the Debutante Club and 30 members of the married and unmarried contingents of society.

Foremost American Astrologer.

J. E. STODDARD.
November 20 marks the natal day of J. E. Stoddard, outstanding Georgian, and recently appointed adjutant general on the military staff of Governor-Elect E. D. Rivers.

This brings his birthdate under the influence of the Zodiacal cusp of Scorpio-Sagittarius. The daring, enterprising nature of Scorpio is the dominant influence of this combination. The Scorpio influence makes him choose difficult achievements, and the Sagittarian is capable in every kind of endeavor, hence the Scorpio-Sagittarian person is equal to any emergency. Frankness and honesty would be outstanding characteristics.

The Moon governs the particular part of the signs under which this birthdate comes. This influence provides unlimited energy, keen wit and a sociable disposition.

The Moon-Venus position becomes the promise of a highly successful life. You can get your complete astrological forecast through The Atlanta Constitution, compiled by Bernice Denton Pierson, one of America's best-known astrologers. SUMMER 602—Your greatest success in life will probably come through one of the artistic professions or work that requires a great deal of concentration of detail. You have a splendid attitude for these lines of endeavor that deal directly with the public. You are progressively enough to keep on experimenting until you find your true niche in life, and when this is accomplished, through application and endeavor, your financial problems will not give you much concern.

SUMMER 1009—You have a practical, intuitive and receptive mind, like investigating that you are at all times sufficient confidence in yourself. You should cultivate the quality of self-confidence, do not become depressed if conditions move slowly, but seek to develop your own talents and abilities. When you find that financial conditions will work themselves out in an easy and satisfactory manner.

SUMMER 1307—Marriage plays an important part in your success in life as you value harmony above all things. There will be times in your life when it seems inevitable that you will have to resort to law suits to secure your rights, but speaking generally you will find that by exercising a little patience and perseverance things will work themselves out without resort to courts of law.

CALORIES GIVE YOU A WEIGH.
The road to avoirdupois is paved with broken New Year's resolutions and calories.

In order to lose weight, you must subtract, not add, calories. Calorie mathematics is a bit difficult, so we will take it step by step. If you are overweight, you have a calorie reserve which must be burned, and a safe reducing diet draws on these stored calories for not more than one-third your energy requirements.

It is so foolish to believe that any reducing diet—no matter what—will answer the purpose!

In calculating the number of calories your need, first determine your normal weight, for your requirements depend on weight and activity.

How much should you weigh? Women are allowed one and three-fourth pounds for each inch of height, at a minimum normal weight, while men are allowed an average of two and three-fourth pounds for each inch of height.

The next step is to multiply your normal weight by the number of calories you use per pound of weight. It has been found that with very little exercise you use up daily from 14 to 16 calories per pound of your weight; with light exercises, from 16 to 18 calories; and with fairly active exercises, 18 calories per pound.

But don't be overly optimistic about the amount of exercise you take. If you are overweight, your activity is not equal to your appetite. Modern housekeeping is classified as light exercise and 16 is the average factor for this type activity. Women office workers use only from 14 to 16 calories per pound of body weight.

The reason you take normal weight rather than your present weight as the basis for calculating your requirements is that excess fat is dead weight, not active tissue, and therefore uses few calories.

Another extremely important point is this: If you are considerably overweight, you must do better than observe your calorie limits. Otherwise, you cannot burn the stored calories—stored as fat. You see, you must live, in part, off your own body fat, before the scales can drop. It is not to draw on stored fat for one-third your calories needs. Hence two-thirds of your normal calorie intake provides a safe and sure reducing diet, which enables you to lose surplus fat at the rate of one to two pounds per week.

Since the reducing diet for the woman of average normal weight should contain 1,200 calories per day, if you are overweight, you must reduce your daily calorie intake to 800 to 1,000 calories.

PUBLIC FORUMS GROUP TO DISCUSS PROGRAM

Advisory Committee on Local Federal Project Will Meet This Morning.

Advisory committee on the public forums which are to be held in Atlanta during the first six months of this year will hold its first meeting this morning at 10 o'clock, in the school department auditorium on the twelfth floor of the city hall. The committee was named by Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta schools, and includes in its personnel representatives of all walks of life and of all business, professional, social and civic groups.

Purpose of the meeting this morning will be to map a general program for the forums, to be held here under the sponsorship of the United States Department of the Interior, office of education, and which are to be financed through an allocation of $35,000 in WPA money.

Subjects for forum discussion will be selected and speakers and leaders for the series of meetings chosen. Some of the speakers will be local men and women who have specialized on the matters for debate while others will be persons of national prominence to be sent here by the federal government.

Atlanta was selected as one of a group of key cities where these forums for the discussion of civic, social and world problems will be conducted. They are designed to arouse public interest in and provide for general expression on all matters of public interest.

It was stated yesterday that all expenses for speakers will be defrayed by the government and the $35,000 allocated to the Atlanta forum series will be used in the gathering of statistics, broadcasting of information derived from the forums, publicity and other clerical and surveying work.

The forums will be held at least once a week while, in cases where the subject to be discussed renders it advisable, several forums on the same topic may be held in different sections of the city each week.

Members of the advisory committee are: W. B. Hartfield, J. P. Allen, Dr. H. Cliff Smith, Dr. J. A. Branch, Kendall Weisiger, Ashby Jones, A. Steve Nance, Miss Jessie Hopkins, Dr. J. R. McCain, Dr. S. V. Sanford, Dr. Ronald Martin, Mrs. Byron Matthews, Rabbi David Marx, James Montoye, Eugene Harrington, Dr. H. W. Cox, Jere Wells, Paul C. Maddox, Dr. M. D. Collins, Mrs. F. J. Melton.

ROTARY HEARS GUY ON FARM FUTURE

Emory Professor Advocates Linking of Industry, Agriculture by Chemist.

A future of undreamed-of prosperity, when industry uses the products of the farm and, through the art of the chemist, transforms the products of the soil into the materials needed by man in a complex civilization, was envisioned yesterday by Dr. J. Sam Guy, of Emory University. Dr. Guy spoke before the Atlanta Rotary Club on "Industry and Farm Development Through Chemistry."

Attacking the idea of farm prosperity through limitation of output, Dr. Guy said the world would be really progressing if, instead of curtailing production, "we might, through intensified farming, greatly multiply production and, through chemistry and industry, find new uses for our products."

"We must train man," he said, "away from being a social moron, even trying to eat up his neighbor."

As an example of the possibility of increased use of agricultural products, Dr. Guy suggested conversion of starch-containing plants into fuel alcohol.

NEW SCHOOL BOOKS
"Gone With Wind," "Empire" To Be Bought.

Works of two Georgia authors—Margaret Mitchell, who wrote herself into international fame in "Gone With Wind," and Miss Emily Woodard, author of "Empire," a pictorial history of Georgia—were honored yesterday when the Atlanta board of education voted to add their books to the school system.

"Gone With Wind" will be placed in libraries of junior and senior high schools, and "Empire" will be purchased for the school system, under resolutions passed by the board.

Mrs. C. V. Peterson, second ward commissioner, asserted: "I believe we should encourage Georgia writers. Both books should be made available to children of the Atlanta school system."

Program of legislation for Fulton and DeKalb counties will be mapped by members of the two delegations at a conference at 6:30 o'clock tonight at the Ansley hotel.

Principal subject for controversy is the proposed merging of Atlanta and Fulton counties. DeKalb legislators have expressed opposition to any such move since a part of Atlanta lies in DeKalb county.

Senator G. Everett Millican, of the thirty-fifth, and Senator Paul Lindsay, of the thirty-fourth, Fulton Representatives William G. Hastings, Cicero Kendrick and Helen Douglas Mankin, and DeKalb Representatives Murphy Candler Jr., Mel Turner and Augustine Samms are scheduled to attend the session.

College Park Is Placed On Traffic Honor Roll
Atlanta and other Georgia cities, who are troubled with traffic problems and accidents, are invited to take a "look in" on College Park, where not a single traffic fatality was recorded during 1936 and only one during 1935.

Police Chief R. W. Moore was notified yesterday that he and the city had been placed on the 1936 Honor Roll of the National Safety Council, an honor that goes to cities and their police chiefs who record no fatal automobile accidents in a year's time.

Lillian Mae Patterns

MAKE TOT A DAINTY 'RUFFLE' FROCK FOR PARTIES OR PLAY!
Pattern 4287.

For a good little girl (and we hope she is) Lillian Mae has planned this sprightly dress of ruffles! There's a lot of fun in this dress. Pattern 4287 has "everything" a Miss of 2 to 10 years would adore in a dainty frock. See its brief puffed or flared sleeves, saucy panel that's pleated at the bottom and pointed at the top, and trim little yokes that spell flattery for a chubby face. But best of all, there's a frill: a crisp ruffle to encircle her shoulders and add a festive note to this simply lovely style! CAMP TO DISCUSS KOPALD-QUINN CASE

District Attorney Assembles Arguments of Defense in Pending Trials Here.

Arguments against the federal government's right to prosecute 24 defendants in the Kopal-Quinn case, alleged racketeering operations were rehearsed yesterday by United States Attorney Lawrence S. Camp, who will leave for Washington this morning to discuss the forthcoming case before the federal grand jury.

Saturday, January 16, has been set by United States Judge E. Marvin Underwood as the date for arraignment of the 24 men who were indicted last fall.

Atlanta attorneys of the accused racketeers have filed motions to quash the indictments, demanding that the government prove for severance of trials, requests for bills of particulars and arguments against the jurisdiction of the court.

The 24 agents of the Kopal-Quinn Company, accused racketeers and stockholders operated in states in the east, the mid-west and the south, and the Atlanta court was selected by the attorney general's office as the scene of the trial, which will be national in its aspect.

Approximately $1,500,000 were collected in the various states in the alleged swindle, it is charged.

LOCAL LEGISLATORS TO MEET TONIGHT

Fulton, DeKalb Delegations To Discuss Proposed Bills for Assembly.

Program of legislation for Fulton and DeKalb counties will be mapped by members of the two delegations at a conference at 6:30 o'clock tonight at the Ansley hotel.

Principal subject for controversy is the proposed merging of Atlanta and Fulton counties. DeKalb legislators have expressed opposition to any such move since a part of Atlanta lies in DeKalb county.

Senator G. Everett Millican, of the thirty-fifth, and Senator Paul Lindsay, of the thirty-fourth, Fulton Representatives William G. Hastings, Cicero Kendrick and Helen Douglas Mankin, and DeKalb Representatives Murphy Candler Jr., Mel Turner and Augustine Samms are scheduled to attend the session.

College Park Is Placed On Traffic Honor Roll
Atlanta and other Georgia cities, who are troubled with traffic problems and accidents, are invited to take a "look in" on College Park, where not a single traffic fatality was recorded during 1936 and only one during 1935.

Police Chief R. W. Moore was notified yesterday that he and the city had been placed on the 1936 Honor Roll of the National Safety Council, an honor that goes to cities and their police chiefs who record no fatal automobile accidents in a year's time.

HIGHWAY LETTING SUIT TO BE HEARD BY DAVIS

Hearing on Plea To Enjoin Board Set for Decatur on Thursday.

Attorney General M. J. Yeomans said yesterday a hearing in the suit to enjoin the highway board from letting $350,000 in contracts was set before Judge James C. Davis at Decatur Thursday.

Several citizens of the old eighth congressional road district, now the tenth highway district, brought the suit December 20 to enjoin the letting of contracts on bids which were opened that day.

Judge J. H. Harrison, of Marietta, granted the temporary injunction and set the final hearing for January 14, two days after the Talmadge administration will leave office.

Judge Harrison provided, however, that as he would be out of the circuit until January 14 the state might apply to any other superior court judge for a hearing. Yeomans said he had asked Judge Davis to hear the case.

Abit Nix, former candidate for governor, brought the suit as attorney. The state law department filed a motion to dissolve the injunction and a demurrer to the suit. They did not answer the contention of the plaintiffs that the old eighth district had been allotted $1,500,000 less than its equal share of the highway funds since the organization of the highway board of 1919.

JENKINS TAKES PLACE ON SUPREME BENCH

Chief Justice Russell, Introducing New Member, Lauds Wisdom of Voters.

W. F. Jenkins, veteran judge of the Georgia court of appeals, took his place on the bench of the state supreme court yesterday.

Chief Justice Russell B. Russell Jr., introducing Jenkins to the court and to lawyers, recalled having served with Jenkins' father in the state legislature and said Georgians had done a wonderful thing in electing such a splendid lawyer and fine man to the supreme court.

W. A. Slaton, of Washington, Ga., court to argue an insurance company case responded for the hour, praising Jenkins' ability and saying: "The lawyers of Georgia could not have paid Judge Jenkins a finer tribute than to allow him to be elected, without question, to the supreme court." Jenkins succeeded Justice S. Price Gilbert, retired.

Slaton and Lawson Thompson, also of Washington, were the first attorneys to argue before the newly constituted court.

CONGRESS DESIRES NAMED BY LEAGUE

Georgia Women Voters Select Legislative Objectives at Coming Session.

Selection of a "big four" legislative program as its major objective in the seventy-fifth congress has been announced by the Georgia League of Women Voters. The program pertains to needed legislation, a continuation of the reciprocal trade agreements program and a strengthened food-drug-computer regulatory measure, it was learned.

Specific methods for improving the federal civil service will also be supported. As actually played, the league was justified in feeling that a slam was possible. But his four no trump bid had not convinced the opponents of North's point of view, showed merely a desire to play the hand at no trump, since scoring was on a match point basis.

The opening lead was the diamond queen, won by the ace. Count of tricks disclosed three in spades (if the king were on-side), two diamonds, one heart and one club. The declarer brought home with only one loser. Moreover, it would be vital to lose no more than one heart trick, since declarer had only one diamond stopper after he had won the first lead. The tenth trick therefore had to be in clubs and moreover it had to be "sneaked through."

As actually played, the declarer laid down the ace and another heart. West won with the king, and continued diamonds. Declarer won, and ruffed off three more heart tricks. The spade finesse was successful, but now when a club was led from dummy East could tell that the diamond suit was established and therefore hopped up with his ace, and returned a diamond. Two tricks in the latter suit defeated the contract.

Shrewd play might have had quite a different result. Declarer, at the second trick, should have led a low spade and taken the finesse, then led dummy's jack of clubs, so that if East had the ace he would be deluded into thinking declarer was attempting a sacrifice. It would take a pretty good player in East's position to put up the ace on the jack and, unless this were done, ten tricks would become a sure thing.

THREE CARD SUIT BIDS.
There are two sound reasons for the choice of the three card minor as the "prepared bid." First, minor suit openings offer partner easy opportunity to respond. Second, partner hardly is likely to carry a minor suit to five-level without at least five good trumps, in which case the suit is safely playable.

In order to assure this parallel, as well as to be prepared for a possible opening lead in the suit bid, we set the biddable requirements for the three card minor suit bids at the ace-king or queen-ten (A x x, K x x, or Q x x).

The choice of the three card suit is the only choice affected by the opening bidder's position at the table. Third or fourth hand, the use of the three card suit is confined exclusively to those hands with no fiddable suit and insufficient strength to open in a trump. Here there is no need for preparing the rebid, since partner's initial pass has removed the forcing character of the suit taken out.

The correct bidding of the following example hands is given for first and second hand, as well as third and fourth:
Opening bid, holding: 1st or 2d.
3d or 4th.

Mrs. Thomas English Is Subject Of Interesting Newspaper Story

By Sally Forth.

THE Richmond Times-Dispatch of last Thursday carried a charming photograph and an equally charming story of Atlanta's Mrs. Thomas English, who, with Dr. English, was an interesting visitor in Richmond during the recent meeting of the Modern Languages Association of America. Dr. and Mrs. English were extensively entertained during their visit, being central figures at a tea given by that former Atlantan, Mrs. Plato Durham, and they were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Shirley D. Southworth at William and Mary College.

The story accompanying the Atlanta's likeness is one that Mrs. English related about the revival of antique stained glass, a subject on which she is thoroughly conversant and which amounts practically to a hobby with her. You see, she is the former Rachel Willet, daughter of the late William Willet, who became one of the country's best-known artists in stained glass. Her mother, Anne Lee Willet, is also an artist in stained glass and she worked with her famous husband in the studios in Philadelphia until his death in 1921. It was only recently that she gave up work with her son, Henry Lee, who has also gained renown in this art.

Mrs. English grew up in the studios of her mother and father, and when other children were putting jigsaw puzzles together, she was fitting together tiny jewel-like pieces of colored glass. She had a daily intimacy with art and with the creation of art that few other children have, and for that reason life was never dull or uninteresting for her. In addition, she inherited much of her parents' talent and has even supervised the setting up of many of their windows in churches—a difficult thing to do, she says, since no artist, however great, can tell beforehand just what the lights in a given church will do.

It was through one of her father's windows, the great west window of the Princeton Graduate school, that Mrs. English met her husband. When a graduate student at the university, Dr. English wrote a poem about this window which was published in Scribner's. Someone sent the poem to Mr. Willet, and he invited the poet to his home.

Since the revival of stained glass by her father, according to Mrs. English, the finest stained glass windows are made in America—windows that have been made with all the religious fervor that went into the windows of the cathedrals of the Middle Ages.

AT LEAST one of the 50,000,000 Frenchmen, the song writers tell of, can't be wrong concerning his love for a charming Atlanta girl. As the story goes, the attractive and suave young foreigner made a special trip to America to see the Atlanta belle who captured his heart during her recent visit to Europe.

They attended one of the yuletide debut balls and the other guests were quite impressed and interested in the manner in which the visitor followed the Atlanta belle around and insisted that she give him all the dances. It was quite evident that he was not familiar with the old southern custom of "breaking," and even after he was informed of it, he refused to dance with any of the other girls present. He very firmly and politely informed his new-made man friends that he came to America to see Miss So and So, and also came to the dance to dance with Miss So and So, and no one else, not even the hostess.

Dame Rumor informs Sally Forth that he plans to return to his native France within a few months and will be accompanied by the Atlanta belle as his bride, and they will reside in one of the historical and noted French cities.

SALLY has heard countless new year wishes expressed for Atlantans during the past few days. Many of these salutations are as varied in nature as the hundreds of resolutions made by individuals at the beginning of the new year. One 1937 wish appealing particularly to Sally's sense of humor was made by Herbert Oliver for Mrs. Robert White, an accomplished equestrienne, who recently purchased a handsome three-gaited mare.

It seems that Mrs. White requested Mr. Oliver, who heads the Atlanta Horse Show Association, to select a name for her new mount. Apropos of the beauty and popularity of the leading feminine character in the current best seller, Mr. Oliver suggested the name "Scarlet O'Hara." No wonder that the new year dawned Mr. Oliver's wish for Mrs. White was that "Scarlet O'Hara would never let her down."

Best Cough Remedy Is Easily Mixed at Home

It's So Easy! Makes a Big Saving. No Cooking.

To get the quickest relief from coughs due to colds, mix your own remedy at home. Once tried, you'll never use any other kind of cough medicine, and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking! Then get 2½ ounces of Pineapple from any drugstore. This is a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes.

Put the Pineapple in a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This makes a full pint of really better medicine than you could buy ready-made for four times the money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, it has no equal. You can feel it penetrating the air passages in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded. (Adv.)

Young Atlanta Mother and Son

Mrs. Lamar Ellis and baby son, Lamar Ellis Jr., are pictured in attractive pose. Mrs. Ellis is the former Miss Sarah Hewlett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel D. Hewlett, and Mrs. W. D. Ellis Jr. is the baby's paternal grandmother. The little boy's parents are popular members of Atlanta's young married society, Mrs. Ellis being a member of the Junior League.

INSTALLMENT XXVII.

The house, almost obscured in the summer by thick foliage, stood forlorn and naked in winter. No light was burning. Arlen changed the bag from one hand to the other, walked slowly up the slippery path, and put her key, long unused, in the door. In the hall she stood a moment as if this was stranger's house she was entering and as if she expected someone to say something. But there were only the two intermingling sounds of the water heater and oil furnace in the basement.

She switched on the light, took off her hat, and looked around. The furniture in the room had been changed. There were new lampshades and the little modernistic table looked conspicuously incongruous where all the other furniture was of the early American period. Someone had been careless about the drafts of the fireplace and the blinds were uneven, and feathers of dust blew under the chairs.

She walked through the dining room, the breakfast room, and the kitchen. Dirty dishes were in the sink. The only food in the refrigerator was oranges and eggs, and the refrigerator needed defrosting badly. Apparently Julia, the cook Karen had hired, had gone south with her mistress. Apparently her father was eating slim breakfasts alone.

When George Leeds came in about seven, he found the living room had been cleaned, the dishes washed, and Arlen in the kitchen making an omelette.

She had seen him cry only once before when her mother had died. There was something terrible in a man's tears. When he came to her, she saw tears in his eyes and his face was lined and strained. It was one of those pathetic moments when the child is the comforter, the parent, the comforted. She felt that if she gave away to her misery and loneliness, she would cry, too, but now hunger, stimulated by work fit for a drudge, was more important than tears.

"I knew you'd come back," George said to his daughter.

"Have you had dinner?" Arlen asked. She patted her father, gently on the shoulder. "If you haven't, I'm afraid you'll have to go to the store. These eggs are all I could find in the house."

"I had dinner with Jerry," Jerry was his brother. He looked around. "You've cleaned up things. They're in awful shape when Julia left, and I couldn't trust a strange girl to come in when I was at the office."

Arlen sat down at the kitchen table. Her appetite failed, knowing what she was about to hear. She was sure her father had not confided in his brother, who had been as horrified as she was at his second marriage and who had not been to the house since.

Arlen wondered if her father saw any change in her. But he would not notice. To him she would always be just yellow hair, grave eyes, and a slender body, never older, never changed. Why was it that parents didn't look upon their children as individuals? She could see the change in him, and she could think of him as rather an ordinary looking man in his middle fifties, dressed by the best tailors, shy with his superiors, supercilious with his inferiors. He had no strength of his convictions, and until the Karen episode, Arlen had always thought of him as rigidly moral though not religious. His social life had been dictated by other people. In business he could be called either a success or a failure, for the coal business owned by him and Jerry had been established two generations before him.

"You said Karen would leave me," he said. "She left when I was at the office and she took all the silver and all the jewelry like . . . like a thief. I wonder she didn't get a van to move the furniture."

"Did you quarrel?" Arlen asked. He nodded like a contented boy. "She turned my home into a road house and had parties when I was away. I never came home that there weren't a lot of people eating and drinking. She was always lying to me about what she did with the money, and always asking for more. The people in the neighborhood wouldn't accept her and one night after one of them snubbed her and I told her I wouldn't pay for all the things she'd charged to me, she—she . . ."

Arlen interrupted to save the date. "I don't care now that she's gone," he said, "but she's been writing letters and she wants money. I'll never get out of this! She doesn't want a divorce. I can't keep two homes going. I advertised that I wouldn't be responsible for her debts. What am I going to do?"

"See your lawyer and don't pay her anything," Arlen smiled. "I suppose she said some very nice things about me. No, don't tell me. All this is so—so ugly. Father?"

"I don't blame you for feeling that way! I'm—I'm ashamed of everything. You're young and you've seen the worst side of marriage."

"Not only you," Arlen thought, "but Renny's. The only difference between Karen and Christa is that Christa does and says more fineness. I've touched the depths of it."

She got up and put the dishes in the sink. "I'm not bitter about marriage. Yours wasn't a marriage to Karen. To her it was a stepping stone to a life without work, and this house was only a stopping place. And you . . ."

"A man making a fool of himself. I didn't want to send for you. You've made friends in New York and there's more life there for a young girl."

"Has Uncle Jerry forgiven you, Father?"

"He didn't say much."

"I have a leave of absence from my job and I'll stay as long as you need me. At least I can save the expense of a maid."

"You'll do nothing of the kind. Call an agency in the morning and get some one." He frowned and looked out the window. "I don't know what this will amount to. Karen would like public life. She likes to degrade the whole family. If it comes to testing . . ."

"Testing?" Arlen cried with shame. "I hope it won't come to anything like that. I hope it can be settled quietly. But I don't know. She—she might come back. I wouldn't put anything past her. I want some one to be here."

Arlen thought. "He's afraid. It's funny how little girls think their fathers are so big and strong. Now he wants me to protect him from her because he knows I'm not afraid of her."

"I'll stay."

"I'll make it up to you some way, Arlen."

"When you bought me dresses and shoes when I was little, did I say, 'I'll make it up to you, Father'?"

He looked at her with a puzzled frown and said soberly, "No. You just—just thanked me and took it for granted. I guess."

When later she hung her dresses in the closets and put her mirror and brush on the dusty dressing table, she knew that she had come back from defeat and failure that were no less bitter because of the defeat and failure here. If her father were relieved of supporting Karen, her judgment was based entirely upon common sense and fairness) he would go back to his old life of bridge clubs, dinners with Uncle Jerry, and lonely nights. That Karen had succeeded in turning him against her would spare him any grief for her absence. In time he would look back upon this marriage as a caprice and one of the follies of the fifties. In time his old friends would be able even to joke with him about it.

Her room. How strange heads had slept on her pillow! How many strange faces had peered into her dressing table mirror and snuggled crimson on their lips? Exile's return. Was it that the room would have no more of her or that she could not take back the room? Nothing had been changed, but it was dusty and disorderly, and strange handkerchiefs and lipsticks had been left there. An ugly cigar burn had scarred the highboy.

As she stretched between the clean sheets, she wondered how she could endure the weeks to come. There was no peace for her. She winced with distaste at the thought of meeting Karen and was terrified at the possibility of testifying against her stepmother if the affairs reached such lurid crisis. The little studio apartment was more of a home now than this house, and the friends she had left in New York—Eliana, Richard, and Rupert—could she include Renny?—were more enduring friends than the people here, who now would call only out of curiosity. That was the usual reverse when an exile returned. Friendly doors were no longer opened and friendly arms no longer drew one in. "I feel that I have left everything in New York," she thought, closing her eyes, "because I left Renny there," and in the dark room she said his name again and again.

Arlen hired a stolid German girl with a baby after a week of interviewing applicants. Her father said, "You're getting your foot in it," but Arlen pitied the young mother with an ailing baby who could find no work at home. Gerda told the pitiful story of coming from Germany to marry a German boy who worked in a Baltimore hotel and of his desertion after the child was born. She spoke with a slight accent, her movements were awkward and clumsy, but she was scrupulously clean, good natured, and willing. With Gerda's scrubbing and Arlen's cleaning the house was sweet. On warm mornings Little Peter was put in the yard, and after a few days of sunshine and rich milk his cheeks were pink and he did not cry so much.

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

You miss your mouth by a mile and start feeding your ear.

To read while you eat is a trick. And it's about as hard as those Laurel and Hardy tricks of patting your head and rubbing your stomach.

Personally, we're a dud at it. But that's not because we don't think it's a fine idea. Once we decided to improve our mind during our lunch hour, and we worked at the thing for weeks. But the lunch always got in our hair. So we had to give up the whole idea. Our mind has just been at a standstill ever since.

However, we think that a persistent mind improver could probably work the thing up at home over her coffee, until she had made the process of putting things in her mouth entirely automatic. Then reading in public restaurants could be done neatly and artistically.

We hope, though, that you won't take up reading at the table unless you are sure that you are an artist at it. No one sitting opposite you wants to watch the ice cream dribble from your ear. Just remember when you are tempted beyond your powers, that sometimes mother really did know best.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

THE STORY OF CHINA.

II—Old Religious Beliefs.

Strange things were believed by Chinese of long ago, and perhaps most strange of all was their story about the making of the world. Here is the tale as it was told:

"In the beginning all was water, and it had no shape or form. At a later time, part of the water turned to rock, and then came the mighty Pan Ku.

Besides their myths, the Chinese tell of people who really lived in their country in ancient times. The most famous was Confucius, who was born almost 2,500 years ago.

Confucius held several offices in a province of China, and at one time was "minister of crime," but his chief work was as a teacher. He gave talks to those who came to listen to him, and at one time had "a thousand disciples."

He lived to the age of 72.

The words of Confucius have come down to us in nine books. Probably the books were written by men who listened, not by the teacher himself. Millions of Chinese think of the books in almost the same way as Christians think of the Bible.

The grave of Confucius is visited by pilgrims in great numbers, and his followers today try to live in the way he taught was good. After his death, he was honored time and again by the government. The offices given him while he was alive were small compared to those which came after he died. He was made a "duke," later a "wang" or "king," still later an "emperor." This is the only case I know where a man has kept rising to higher and higher earthly offices after he was buried.

Reaping Reward Looms as 3-Year-Old Winter Book Favorite

The Story of the Stranger Who Golfed at Radium Springs

Bobby Jones, going hunting in south Georgia, stopped off in All-Benny and rang up Richard Tift and suggested a spot of golf.

"Sure," said Richard Tift. So they went out to the Radium Springs course and started playing, attended each by a small colored caddy. Neither caddy knew Mr. Jones.

Now, Richard Tift is a pretty fair golfer, as the boys say. He went to the finals of the Radium Springs invitation meet last summer. He has been out of the duffer class for years.

The colored caddies think no one can play golf as can "Mistuh Tift." And when the stranger with Mr. Tift proceeded to win the first two holes and halve the third, their distress was acute.

It became even more acute when, driving off the fourth tee, Bobby Jones really got hold of one and spanked it near 300 yards down the fairway.

"Mistuh" Tift's caddy eyed the drive with sad eyes. He sidled over to "Mistuh" Tift and said, in a stage whisper.

"'Mistuh' Tift, if we ain't keeful, and if that man's luck holds out, he sho gwine to beat us."

Not until they were told did they know for whom they were caddyng. And they were pop-eyed all the way around.

And now there is just one person who can play golf better than "Mistuh" Tift.

And that is "Mistuh" Jones. Yes, suh!

FOURTEEN GOLF TOOLS.

Just a year ago the U. S. G. A. announced it hoped golfers would cease adding to their sets of clubs. The load was getting too heavy, for a number of reasons, thought the U. S. G. A.

For one thing, most of the skill was going out of the game. There was a club for almost every shot and the old-style golfer who could make half-swings, quarter-swings, fade shots, pull shots, and so on, was gone. Or going.

The iron clubs today are all stamped as to distance and the number has grown accordingly. So have the woods. The set of clubs carried by a champion-flight player today averages about 22 clubs. Some have 25.

It was not so many years ago, when Chick Evans and Bob Gardner were winning titles, that nine or ten clubs were enough. A mashie did the duties for which the modern golfer employs four or five clubs. Bob Gardner won a championship with one wood club. Tony Manero won the open golf title of America at Baltusrol with a set of 19 clubs. And that was considered unique.

The U. S. G. A. now limits the sets of clubs to 14 for use in championship competition.

It will mean, I think the end of so many boy wonders. They will have to learn to play golf today. The clubs won't mean so much. It will be necessary to play two or three shots with each club. And that will slow them down.

It will mean the restoration of some of the technique and skill which made the old-timers famous. But I doubt if it lasts. The players are so used to a tool for each shot, so used to scoring well, they may not take kindly to the limitations of armament.

It is an interesting experiment. And the summer scores should be even more so.

SOME OF THE GOLF BAGS.

Some of the golf bags had grown to tremendous proportions. There was a space for 30 clubs, sweaters, an umbrella, balls and other accessories.

A few of them were large enough to use as sleeping bags. And maybe some of the winter tournament pros, who were never in the money, had to use them for that purpose. There is no telling. They used to tell some pretty awful stories of some of the hotels they stopped in.

If the U. S. G. A. will go a step further and make a few more regulations such as forbidding the hand-mashie in newspaper tournaments; restricting each player to not more than five lost balls; putting a player out for fanning the ball three times, the game will become a lot safer and saner.

Caddies will hail the new regulation as to clubs with delight. They had come to resemble beasts of burden in the major tournaments, resembling donkeys with cordwood tied on their backs.

It likely is the proper move—the new regulation—but this is the era for expanding. And anything smacking of restrictions meets with frowns.

MR. WYNNE'S BLAST.

Mr. William Alexander, lately back from the National Association meeting of coaches and pedagogues at New York, is wearing his house slippers as much as possible.

It seems the boys did nothing much except stand around. And standing around on the hotel lobby floors is very trying on the dogs.

I asked him about Mr. Chet Wynne's blast at the football officials, a blast which seemed to be about all the news produced by the convention.

Mr. Wynne was reported as saying out in meeting that some officials went into the game with their minds made up as to the probable winner and this undoubtedly exercised an unconscious influence on their decisions.

The officials replied hotly. But Mr. Wynne stuck to his guns.

He very likely was right, at that. Being human, the officials must have thought about the outcome of the game and arrived at some private or public conclusion.

And, having an opinion, any quick decision would be flavored with this opinion.

At any rate, most of the coaches thought him correct.

The officials were making a plea that coaches not offer any criticism of officials' errors. This they refused to do on the basis there was no excuse for an official not knowing the rules of the game. Which some of them did not seem to do.

These Tech Players Wish Basket Really Was This Big!

They wouldn't miss many shots, would the Tech cage stars, if the basket really were as big as it appears from the photographer's angle atop the backboard. The five players who may open the season against Mercer Saturday night are shown as they appeared in the official opening practice last night. They are, left to right, Whack Hyder, guard; Ben Jones, forward; Bo Johnston, center; Bill Jordan, forward, and Burtz Boulware, guard.

BULLDOGS PLAY MOCCASIN FIVE

Athens Invaded by Chattanooga for Games Friday and Saturday.

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 4.—Coach Rex Enright today vowed to get the squad in the "best shape possible" as his University of Georgia basketball outfit looked to opening games with the University of Chattanooga Moccasins Friday and Saturday night here.

The crafty Bulldog mentor said he was impressed by the squad in their 46-17 rout of the Parkersburg five, of Atlanta, Saturday night.

"Wait and see what we do against the stronger teams," he said, reserving his opinion on the squad. "I know that it is the greatest bunch we've had in a long time today."

Harry Harman, stellar guard, and Lee Richards, promising forward, showed up for their first workout this afternoon. Richards is out for a week's trial of his left knee which he injured in the Red Devil-Monroe football game in November. He scrimmaged a few minutes today. Work of Center Jack Farren and Olin Thompson, who led the scoring, drew considerable praise Saturday night. Former teammates at Lanier High, they made the All-G. I. A. A. second team the same season.

Work of Center Jack Farren and Olin Thompson, who led the scoring, drew considerable praise Saturday night. Former teammates at Lanier High, they made the All-G. I. A. Mack Banks on South; Ex-A's Help Crackers

Georgians, Ex-Atlantans Backbone of Philadelphia; Champions Count on Mackmen.

By Jack Troy.

Southerners and, more specifically, Georgians and ex-Crackers, play leading roles in Mr. Connie Mack's scheme of relying largely on young men as he rebuilds another Athletic club.

Ex-Mackmen or Athletic property figure strongly in the Crackers' plans of winning a third straight pennant.

It is a most interesting situation. Mr. Mack is counting heavily on Harry Kelley, Bud Thomas and Al Williams, from the Crackers; Lamar Newsome, Columbus; Wally Moses, Vidalia; Lou Finney, Lafayette, and Chubby Dean, former Duke star, another southerner, to help keep the A's in the American league race.

Kelley, whom Mr. Mack took by draft, won 16 games for him last year. He was a clutch for 20 victories when an appendicitis operation stopped him. Kelley figures to win 20 or more for the A's this summer, according to a recent admission.

MOSES IS FIXTURE. Moses, a bridegroom of recent date, is a fixture in the outfield. He batted just .345 as a second year major league recruit.

Finney, playing either at first base or in the outfield, is considered one of Mr. Mack's best bets. Some think he is of more value to the A's at first base, but he is valuable in the outfield, too. Mr. Mack thought so much of this pair, he sold George Pucinelli, slugging outfielder, to Baltimore.

Newsome is regarded as the No. 1 shortstop of the club. Dean, used only as a pinch-hitter last year, was the most effective player in the league in this role. He secured 15 pinch hits for an average of .400. He's counted on as a great natural hitter.

Then there are Thomas, who won 18 and lost 8, and Williams, who won 17 and lost 7, totalling in Cracker livery. Williams had been bought for fall defense and Thomas was sold to Mr. Mack at the end of the season.

FORMER A'S SOLD. Former Athletics who are figured to help the Crackers, or else, are Paul Richards, Emil Mailho, Alex Hooks and Gerald McQuigg.

Then there is Hugh Luby, cracker second baseman whom the Crackers have on option from the A's. He is not an ex-Athletic yet. But he may be in time.

Richards, Mailho and Hooks, of course, played for the Crackers last year. Richards and Hooks were Cracker property, but Mailho was here on option. The Crackers bought him outright this winter.

McQuigg, whom Connie Mack bought as a Mercer athlete, went to spring training with the Crackers but had trouble with his eyes. He was benched in a spring exhibition between the Cracker Yannis and Mow Point.

McQUAIG FARMED OUT. McQuigg was farmed out. And this past winter he visited a specialist who fitted him with special glasses and announced McQuigg's troubles should be over. McQuigg has been on a barnstorming trip with a team of all-stars in Puerto Rico this winter.

Manager Moore is counting on McQuigg, who is very fast, a fine fielder and a heavy hitter, to fill the right field slot.

If Connie Mack, now in his 74th year, makes any time in the American league race, he can thank the south and, more specifically, Georgia and the Crackers.

And if the Crackers win their third straight pennant they can thank the A's, and, more specifically, Mr. Mack, the grand old man.

TECH QUICKENS PACE ON COURT

Mercer Game Set Saturday; Five Drills for First Time.

The finest squad of basketball players ever assembled under one roof at Georgia Tech met with Coach Roy Munford last night for the purpose of making up for lost time.

The opening game with Mercer is scheduled for Saturday night at the Naval armory and five of the players practiced for the first time last night. There's much work to be done.

The five who reported last night and rounded out the squad included Bill Jordan, Ed Jones, Fletcher Sims, Junior Anderson and George Smith.

All football men. The others who have been working for almost a month are Ben Jones, Bo Johnston, Whack Hyder, Burtz Boulware, Joe Ebdon and Doyle Butler.

Little work is needed on conditioning. All the players are in good shape. Teamwork is the main item in Coach Munford's mind.

The squad will work in the daytime today and return to its drill under the
